BRITISH EDITOR SEES EVIL INTENT IN SOME TOKIO NAVAL CRITICS

Mischief Makers Trying To Stir Anti-British Feeling

JUSTIFIES BASE

Says It Will Exert 'Steadying Influence' In East

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 6.—The liverpool Journal of Commerce regrets the attempts of mischief-makers in Japan to arouse feeling against Britain over the new naval base at Singapore and declares it ridiculous to describe the establishment of the base as an offensive move against Japan. The paper points out that had Britain harbored any such thoughts she would certainly not have broken up the naval base at Weihalwei, which would certainly have been a loaded pistol at the heads of the Japanese.

The new base, the journal continues, besides protecting British commerce and Australasia will permit Britain to exercise a steadying influence should the much discussed war in the Pacific ever come to pass. In such an event one of the first things to be done by one or the other of the belligerents would certainly be to attempt to seize the badly-protected Dutch Indies, which could not be allowed by Britain owing to the balance of power and Singapore would be a very excellent means of preventing it.

It is to be feared that both the malcontents in Japan and the anti-British section of the United States, the paper asserts, lay themselves open to the suspicion of counting on the seizure of the Dutch Indies in the event of war.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 6.—In a letter to the Morning Post, Mr. F. G. Penny M. P. (Conservative), replying to Mr. Darbishire's letter of July 2, declares that Mr. Darbishire's statement that the Singapore naval base will probably cost nearer £20,000,000 than £10,000,000 is not supported by any evidence. Personally, he is of the opinion that the estimated cost is ample.

With regard to Mr. Darbishire's suggestion that Britain should depend on the goodwill of Japan, Mr. Penny declares that the measure of Japanese goodwill towards the British Empire will vary as always in the past in direct ratio to the strength of the Empire in the Far East.

Mr. Penny emphasises that the scheme is purely defensive. Those best qualified to judge consider it essential for the safety of the Empire. It would be a thousand pities if it became merely a counter game of party politics.

Harding Places Wreath On Graves Of Legionnaires

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Centralia, Washington, July 4.—President Harding early this morning ordered his special train to stop at this little Washington town and accompanied only by his two military aides he drove through the rain to the Centralia cemetery and placed a wreath on the graves of the members of the American Legion who were killed by I.W.W's. on Armistice Day two years ago.

Radicals ambushed a parade of the local post of the American Legion as they marched down the main street, killing post and several other legionnaires.

Paris, July 5.—The Banque industrielle de Chine case was resumed today before the 11th District Court in Paris.

Who Is Going To Win This $100,000 Gold?

Edward Bok has offered $100,000 gold for the best plan under which the United States can cooperate for World Peace.

We think that people living in Shanghai have a better chance to win this prize than people living at home.

We are a sort of League of Nations. We get along together and are building up a great city. We have or ought to have a broader outlook, a wider vision, than our relatives at home.

THE CHINA PRESS at any rate thinks that the prize ought to be won by one of its readers. It is, therefore, forming a committee to judge local contributions, and offers the small prize of $100 Mex. merely to stimulate local interest. All contributions submitted will be forwarded to the Edward Bok Committee to be passed upon under whatever regulations shall be formulated.

More details later. Meanwhile read our editorial of today and GET BUSY.

SPOKESMEN SAY RUSSO-JAPANESE 'TALKS' WILL GO ON

'Immediate Breaking Off Unlikely,' Is Official Pronouncement

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 6.—On the suggestion of both delegates the Russo-Japanese conversations were called off for today's session. It is believed that the Nikolaievsk and Saghalien questions have created a deadlock.

It is understood that the conversations will be resumed on Monday when it is probable that other questions will be discussed. The Japanese decline to give an explanation of the postponement, but M. Joffe's desire to confer with M. Davtian is given as the reason for postponement by the Russian spokesman.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 6.—Plans are being consummated today for sending to Russia a business delegation, numbering twenty-five, under the auspices of the Russo-Japanese Association. The party purposes visiting the Moscow Exhibition where specimens of Japanese products will be shown.

Later.—The deadlock regarding Nikolaievsk has been confirmed by an official Japanese spokesman, though, he states, this was not the reason today's session was called off.

Any prospect of an immediate breaking off on that account is declared to be unlikely because, it is explained, the object of the present conversations is solely to discover possible points of approach between the conferees.

Therefore, in spite of differences of opinion on any one question the whole field will be reviewed, after which the respective Governments will decide if a formal conference is warranted.

Regarding Nikolaievsk, the Japanese view is that if the Russians insist on setting off their responsibility for the damages against that of the Japanese Expeditionary Force in Siberia the negotiation must end in disagreement.

League Hears Hungarian Case

(French Wireless)

Paris, July 5.—It is reported from Lausanne that the Council of the League of Nations today heard an explanation of the Hungarian case in the question of the appropriation by the Rumanian Government of land and property belonging to Hungarian residents in Transsylvania and decided to lay the case before the international Court of Justice. The Rumanian argument insisted on the Brussels Agreement.

On the proposal of Lord Robert Cecil the Council decided to express its thanks to the French Government for its remarkable report on the question of slavery.

DICTIONARY CASE IS AGAIN BEFORE THE MIXED COURT

Application For Renewal Of Injunction Is Granted

In the copyright case brought in the Mixed Court against the Commercial Press by G. and C. Merriam and Co., American publishers, in connection with the bringing out here of what purports to be an edition of the Webster's International Dictionary, the injunction restraining the local company was renewed yesterday by Assessor Allman and Magistrate Loh.

The Court also ordered that an inventory be taken and that all the articles in connection with the dictionary enterprise found on the premises be recorded.

The application was made on behalf of the American publishing firm by Mr. Krisel, while Mr. Alex. Ting appeared for the Commercial Press.

Underwood Wants U. S. To Aid World Readjustment Work

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 6.—Senator Underwood (Democrat), sometimes called a Presidential possibility for 1924, who recently returned from Europe, today made a statement urging the United States to help in the readjustment of the world and arraigning the American Government as paralysed, "without a policy with regard to the affairs of Europe, without courage or conviction, without anything that makes a man a man or a Government a Government."

Senator Underwood, however, does not favor the United States joining the World Court.

British Pay U. S. $4,600,000,000

(Reuter's Service)

Man With Two Wives And Two Names Sentenced To Two Years In Prison

Charles Carberry, Confessed Bigamist, Married Russian Girl Here Despit Wife In New York—Lobingier Upholds Confession

Charles C. Carberry, formerly employed by the British Cigarette Company in Pootung, was sentenced to serve two years in Bilibid Prison, Manila, and to pay a fine of G. $300 by Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier in the United States Court yesterday when he was found guilty of bigamy.

In handing down the judgment Judge Lobingier held that the confession Carberry made to United States District Attorney Leonard G. Husar was voluntary and admissable evidence. In the confession Carberry unfolded a dramatic story of 'the eternal triangle.' He had married Miss Frances Newman in New York in 1920 and tiring of married life with her had stolen the birth certificate of Bernard Pinder, a close friend, and secured a passport under the assumed name. He came to China under his assumed name and married Miss Evprazia Zimina, a Russian girl, here in February. His American wife, learning that he was in Shanghai, wrote the American Consulate-General for information concerning him, and it was through her inquiry that it was discovered he was leading a double life—a man with two wives and two names.

THE CONFESSION

U. S. District Attorney Husar called him into his office for an explanation. Carberry at first maintained that it was all a mistake, but when confronted with the marriage certificate of his New York marriage, broke down and confessed everything in a remarkable human interest story.

At the trial, which attracted much attention, the chief evidence of guilt was contained in Carberry's confession, in which he admitted all the charges made against him. His attorney, Maj. C. P. Holcomb, objected to the admittance of the confession on the ground that he was not warned that it might be used against him. The court held, however, that such warning is not necessary in this jurisdiction.

Major Holcomb immediately field notice of appeal.

THE COURT'S DECISION

The full text of Judge Lobingier's decision is as follows:

"This is a prosecution for bigamy. The accused admits that he was married in Shanghai, on February 11, 19[illegible], under the name of Bernard [illegible] and he [illegible] charge that he had previously been married in New York City under the name of Carberry.

"A document purporting to be a copy of a marriage licence issued to Charles Carberry and Frances Newman on October 20, 1920, is certified to as correct by the Clerk of the County Court and the Supreme Court. It is objected that the certificate of a judicial or other officer as to the status of the clerk is omitted, but the point is rendered immaterial by the offer of a confession made by the accused to the United States Attorney during an examination in his office before the arrest in which the accused expressly admits the previous marriage.

"This confession is assailed on the ground that accused was not warned that it might be used against him. We know of no statute so requiring in this jurisdiction and the Supreme Court has quoted with approval the following:

"It is laid down that it is not essential to the admissibility of a confession that it should appear that the person was warned that what he said would be used against him, but on the contrary, if the confession was voluntary, it is sufficient though it appear that he was not so warned."

"The Texas cases cited by defendant's counsel were decided under a Statute which expressly requires such warning.

But when accused is in custody it is urged that this confession was made under a promise of immunity in the following statement by the United States Attorney to the accused:

"Have you any objection to making a statement on oath? It is as much for your own protection as anyone else's. I am telling you frankly that this is purely a matter of identity and if you can convince me as an official of this Court that you are not the man involved, and can make a statement which I can forward to Washington—and so far this is practically a judicial proceeding—in my capacity of District Attorney I am going to ask you some questions, and if you can answer the questions I am going to ask you, on oath, we shall be able to quash the whole thing."

NO IMMUNITY PROMISED

"It will be observed that this statement contains no promise of immunity in return for a confession. The accused was told

FIND SHORTAGE IN TAX OFFICE; SEEK FOREIGNER

Warrant Out For E. F. Cardwell, Now En Route To America

The fact that approximately $3,000 is missing from the coffers of the Municipal treasury became known yesterday when it was learned that a warrant had been issued for the arrest of E. F. Cardwell, a tax collector employed by the Municipal Council, who departed from Shanghai on June 30 on the Nikko Maru.

After Cardwell's rather hurried departure it is alleged that a shortage approximating $3,[illegible] was discovered in his accounts and a warrant was immediately applied for from the American authorities. As it was necessary for Cardwell to land in Japan on the Japanese liner cable messages were sent the authorities there to intercept him and have him returned to Japan.

The Japanese authorities are reported to have detained Cardwell and notified the authorities here, and it had been planned to send either a Municipal detective or the United States Marshal for him yesterday.

The Japanese, however, were holding Cardwell on the score that he was an undesirable citizen, as Shanghai has no extradition rights in Japan, and Cardwell, taking advantage of the fact, succeeded in securing the intervention of the American Consular authorities in Yokohama in his behalf so that he was deported to the United States, as he demanded, rather than deported back to Shanghai.

It is expected that the American authorities will make an effort to have Cardwell arrested when he lands in the United States although it is said to be a debatable point as to whether he can be extradited from the United States for a crime alleged to have been committed in Shanghai.

Educators Plan "World University"

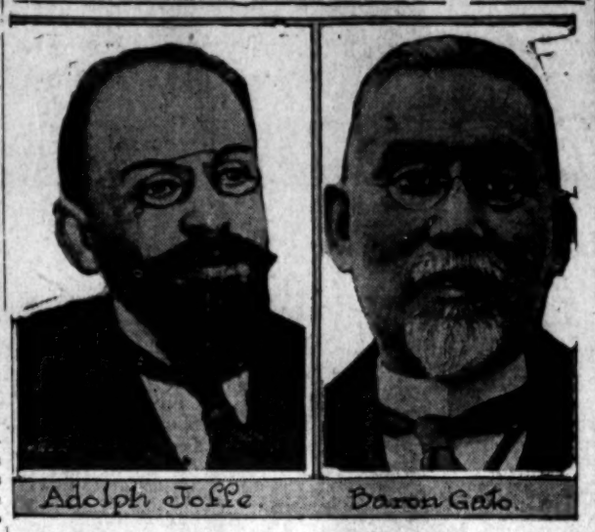
London, July 5.—The House of Commons today by 213 votes to 74 adopted the India Office estimates and rejected a Labor motion of reduction as a protest against the Viceroy certifying the salt tax. The minority was composed of Labor Members.

New Triple Alliance Rumored



Adolph Joffe. Baron Gato.

A new triple alliance of Russia, Japan and Germany is regarded by shrewd political observers as a possible outcome of a preliminary official conference to which the Japanese Government invited Commissar Adolph Joffe, who was head of the Russian delegation to the Russian-Polish peace conference at Riga and who is Foreign Plenipotentiary of the Russian Soviet Government. Japanese leaders, it said, are building politically for the future in their negotiations with Russia and Germany. The decision of the Japanese Cabinet to confer with Joffe is regarded as a victory for Baron Shimpei Goto, former Mayor of Tokio, who resigned that office in order to urge an economic conference and agreement with the Soviet.

CHINESE NAMED TO LEAGUE OF NATIONS OFFICE

Hsia Chi-feng, Former Shanghai Journalist, On Secretariat

(Reuter's Service)

London, Ma[illegible] 30.—The selection of Mr. Hsia Chi-feng for employment in the Information Section of the Secretariat of the League of [illegible] reported [illegible] (April 30) has been the subject of much sympathetic comment.

Mr. Hsia Chi-feng has been in Europe for a number of years and his time has been largely spent in Paris and Geneva. He speaks English and French, he is quite well known to European press circles and he is also always in touch with the diplomats of different countries. I short he is a man who "mixes well."

Mr. Hsia Chi-feng has assisted the Chinese Delegation to the League of Nations ever since 1921, and particularly he rendered active service to the Chinese Delegation during the Assembly of 1922, when at the re-election of members of the Council of the League, the re-election of China was partly due to his propaganda in Geneva, worked and carried out by him.

He was a well-known journalist in Shanghai and has acted as Special Correspondent for the Shih Pao at Shanghai, whilst travelling in Europe, and indeed until he joined the Secretariat of the League of Nations last April. Mr. Hsia Chi-feng is the only Chinese connected with the Secretariat of the League.

France Expects To Harvest Bigger Wheat Crops

(French Wireless)

Paris, July 5.—The Bourse de Commerce is receiving more complete reports on the yield of the coming wheat crop, which is reported to be good in every department except three or four. It is hoped that the total production will reach 75,000,000 instead of the 66,000,000 quintals last year. The harvest has begun in Provence.

FINISH EXAMINING THE MAIN WITNESS AGAINST INDIANS

Murder Case In British Police Court Is Again Adjourned

The cross-examination of the Indian interpreter who was instrumental in giving information to the police about the murder of Arjan Singh, alleged to have been committed by Kataria Singh and Wazir Singh, was continued in Mr. J. G. Priestwood yesterday in the British Police Court before Mr. D. R. Cooke, Magistrate. Mr. Eardley Maitland prosecuted.

Questioned as to why he wrote an anonymous letter to the police, witness said he was not sure about the body. He could not tell the police where it was.

"In your letter of May 1 you stated that the man had been shot. Who told you that?"—"The first time the accused told me Arjan Singh was killed by a Chinese, who used a revolver."

"Did anybody else tell you this man was shot?"—"No one else."

"Your second letter to the police is headed 'A Great Misunderstanding.' What was the misunderstanding?"—"That the police thought that Arjan Singh had killed the accused, while it was the accused who killed Arjan Singh."

"Who told you this?"—"The two accused."

"Your second letter does not tell the police what you now say in evidence. Why did you not tell them all this?"—"I explained to the police that Arjan Singh did not kill these accused."

"Your theory was that this body was buried?"—"According to what they said."

"I want to tell you that your evidence regarding the accused having confessed to you that they killed Arjan Singh is entirely untrue."—"I say it is true."

"Do you owe any money to accused?"—"I owe Kataria Singh ten dollars."

"Can you tell me why Kataria Singh should confide to you?"—"I used to help him whenever he was in trouble. I had lived with him for one year, and he therefore relied upon me."

"Have you received any reward?"—"No, none."

"Are you hoping for any reward?"—"I was not after the reward. I gave the information to the police before the reward offer was made by them."

This concluded the cross-examination of this important witness for the prosecution.

Gulzar Singh, a watchman who was employed in the same mill as the accused, then testified to Kataria Singh having accused Arjan Singh, Bawa Singh and another of having stolen his box. Arjan Singh and Kataria Sing were not on friendly terms for some time, he said.

The hearing was then adjourned.

UNIONISTS TO ACT

Condemn Criminal Acts As Opposed To Resistance

(French Wireless)

Paris, July 5.—The Journal des Debats writes: "If Britain spoke firmly to Berlin and confronted Herr Cuno with the consequences of his present policy, resistance would cease, work would be resumed and the French and Belgians would willingly adapt the occupation of the Ruhr to the new circumstances."

The journal states that the British apprehensions with regard to French policy are absolutely without foundation. The development of the German financial crisis does not arise from reparations payments, which, in truth, Germany has up to the present only carried out in a small measure.

The Liberte recalls that France proposed in 1921 to institute control of German finances. The system was then rejected by Britain. The Liberte asks how the British Government today thinks Germany can be saved.

FOREIGN NAVAL MEN RECEIVED BY KIANGSI OFFICIAL

Reception to British Admiral Marks First Recognition in Years

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanchang, June 28.—Much significance is attached to the unusual reception tendered Admiral Maclachlin of the British Navy who arrived here last night with Captain Elliot on the Bee.

For the first time since the riots of 1905 officers of a foreign gunboat have not been refused recognition. Year after year gunboat commanders have left their cards for the governors only to be politely informed that officials of Kiangsi were not at home and never would be at home to the gunboats who dared leave the waters of the Yangtsze and enter the sacred precincts of Kiangsi. General Tsai Cheng-hsun, in spite of his protests to Peking about American gunboat on the lake received the British visitors with open arms and a military band and escort. This afternoon he returned the call and was given a salute of seventeen guns.

General Tsai enjoyed the visit to the boat as much as the little boys from missionary homes who visited the ship shortly after. We do not need to say that the visitors were greatly elated over the success of their visit. The "Bee" returns to Kiukiang tomorrow.

General Tsai Cheng-hsun has brought three airplanes to Nanchang. They are entirely in the care of Chinese and in the first flight a pilot was killed and one machine badly damaged. A number of successful flights have been made since then and sore necks from sky gazing are quite the order of the day.

A run on the Provincial bank of Kiangsi last week made valueless the large issue of paper money put out without a silver lining by the military government. Our paternal government, however, immediately stepped in and ordered the other banks to deposit enough money with the provincial bank to cover all claims and all bills presented since have been redeemed at the rate of one silver dollar plus one copper. Holders of these notes are resting easy, but it is hard to see how a slump can long be delayed with the market flooded with some fifty-seven varieties of paper money, from copper notes to ten dollar bills which every banker and his brother have been putting out during the last year at periods registering increasing frequency. In spite of the warnings of disaster much activity is being displayed in every line of business and the populace seem assured of a long continued spell of peace and prosperity. Building in the business section is more active than it has been at any time for two or three years past.

Peking Notes

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 6.—Mr. Chang Ying-hua departed for Tientsin yesterday afternoon and after his arrival there sent a message to the Cabinet saying that he could not return to the Finance Ministry.

Mr. Chang had been striving hard to raise funds but without much success.

The immediate cause of his departure was his failure to carry out his plan for the export of superfluous salt, which was generally opposed.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 6.—It is reported from Tientsin that 131 Members of Parliament left Tientsin for the south by rail or sea this morning. Seventy other Members left Tientsin yesterday, making altogether about 240 Members who have left Tientsin. Thus the chances of a Parliamentary quorum at Peking are more remote than ever.

Many Members at Peking are also insisting on the payment to themselves of further large sums before they do more to further General Tsao Kun's cause.

Tokio, July 6.—Mr. Yoshizawa, the newly-appointed Japanese Minister at Peking, left for Peking this morning.

Vienna Votes Sum For The Unemployed

Vienna, July 4.—The city government has voted the sum of 120,000,000 crowns—approximately $2,000,000—for relief work among the unemployed. It is planned to spend half the amount to erect houses for more than 800 families, and the remainder will be used to extend the city's tramway system, build a public bath, and for other social betterments.

Carberry Sentenced To Two Years In Prison

that if he could convince the United States Attorney that he was not the man involved and if he could answer the questions, nothing further would be done. In other words any hope of immunity was founded upon the supposition that the accused would be able to exculpiate himself by his answers; it was directly the opposite of promising immunity for a confession of guilt. It seems to be settled that the promise or threat which will vitiate a confession must be one which was effective in evoking it. But the language above quoted would seem to call forth a declaration of innocence rather than of guilt.

Nor do we think that the following language by the United States Attorney amounts to a threat inducing the confession:

Q. I hate. ....., to put you under arrest on a charge of bigamy, but I don't know what else I can do. Your own answers, unfortunately force me to the conclusion, together with the absolute evidence which I have—marriage certificate and so forth—that you are one and the same man who married Miss Newman.

"This was not a statement that accused would be put under arrest unless he confessed, but rather an announcement that his arrest had been decided upon because of answers already given.

"But it is claimed that the interrogation by the United States Attorney constituted a judicial proceeding to which different rules apply. We doubt if it were such, although the United States Attorney himself so referred to it. At least it was no more so than a Coroner's inquest or a Grand Jury's investigation—inculpatory statements made at both of which have been held admissible.

NO THREATS EMPLOYED

"Authorities are cited to the proposition that such statements are prima facie involuntary and that the burden rests upon the prosecution to prove the contrary. The prosecution has so proved by showing that no threats, intimidation or other inducements were used. The accused was not placed in custody until after the principal questions were asked and he was not even subpoenaed to attend the hearing. But the rule would not seem to be different in this jurisdication even where the party is actually under arrest. As was said by Mr. Justice Harlan:

"Confinement or imprisonment is not in itself sufficient to justify the exclusion of a confession, if it appears to have been voluntary, and was not obtained by putting prisoner in fear or by promises".

The same eminent judge observed in another case

"A confession if freely and voluntarily made, is evidence of the most satisfactory character".

"We have not overlooked a later decision of the same court; but real means of intimidation were used there. In this case there being nothing to impugn this "satisfactory evidence" and the only doubtful point, i. e. the prior marriage having been admitted, we must find the accused guilty of the offence charged.

THE PENALTY

The penalty is fixed by the following provision:

"Every person who has a husband or wife living, who marries another, whether married or single, and any man who simultaneously, or on the same day marries more than one woman, is guilty of polygamy, and shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars and imprisoned not more than five years".

"Commenting on this provision, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals declared it

"A full substitute in every respect for the old English statute of James; but instead of making the crime a felony, as did the statute of James, it makes it a misdemeanor only".

"We are of the opinion, therefore, that a period of two years would be adequate for the imprisonment feature and the accused is accordingly sentenced to confinement in Bilibid Prison, Manila, Territory of the Philippines, for such period, running from the date of his incarceration—i. e. two years from June 13, 1923. He is also sentenced to pay a fine of three hundred dollars and the costs of this prosecution.

"By The Court, Charles S. Lobingier, Judge."

Union Orders Striking Dock Hands To Work

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—The National Defence Committee of the Transport Workers' Union today unanimously passed a resolution instructing the dockers who are on strike to resume work on July 9. The National Council of Port Labor Employers had previously passed a resolution calling on the Transport Workers' Union to secure adherence to the National Wages Agreement.

There are now 18,000 dockers on strike in London. Seven thousand have struck at Manchester, 500 at Liverpool and 1,100 at Birkenhead.

Hall-Mark Company Formed In Australia

A hall-marked company has been established in Australia, and offices have been opened in Melbourne and Sydney. The Retail Jewellers' Association has formed a company registered under the Companies Act. It will trade without profit. The objects of the company are purely for the public good in the maintenance of a high standard of quality and trade. Ultimately it is hoped the company will receive Government recognition by being clothed with powers similar to those of the Goldsmiths' Guild of Britain, which really founded the English hall-mark, 300 years ago.

The company intends to follow in close detail the practice of the English Hall Mark Company. The mark registered for gold is the kookaburra, and for silver, the wren. All work falling short of the required standard will be destroyed, so that purchasers may be assured that goods bearing the kookaburra or wren marks are of the quality stamped.

Ichang, June 28.—There has lately been an adequate rainfall in this district, and anxiety with regard to the rice crop is removed. The river has also risen considerably, thus showing that the rainfall has been abundant away in the far west of China; yesterday it reached 32' 7" which is the highest point that has been touched this year.

The Upper Yangtse steamers are running regularly, but there is not a great deal of cargo moving, as merchants are naturally careful while the country is in such an unsettled state. It appears that things must be safer on the route from Chungking to Suifu now, as the "Robert Dollar II" expects to run right to Suifu when she leaves tomorrow morning. Not only was the Shuhun unable to make that trip a fortnight ago, but the Standard Oil Co.'s steamer Meitan could not proceed, though she was all loaded up at Chungking with that objective in view.

The anti-Japanese boycott is still proceeding, and there must be very little business done now by the Japanese. Their Hankow steamer Ta Yuan went ashore near Tungshih (between here and Shasi), and it is reported that when their crew went on shore to the village to purchase rice and foodstuffs, they were refused; they then proceeded further down river to the next market town, and were able to secure a supply of rice there. Afterwards, when it became known who they were, local residents tried to overtake them to get back the stuff, but did not succeed. From this it can be seen that the anti-Japanese propaganda has been preached even in the small villages along the river. The big rise in the river must have released the Ta Yuen from her position. The Chungking steamers of the same company (the N.K.K.) continue to run but they carry very little cargo, and what they do have must be that of their own merchants.

REGIMENT BEATEN

A curious incident has occurred at Chungchow about half way to Chungking. The Ankong which belongs to the Yang Sen party, was transporting a regiment of soldiers, under a captain belonging to the 18th Division. The boat was anchored at Chungchow, when suddenly there was a fierce attack from the shore. The captain and pilots of the steamer were killed, as also the captain of the regiment and about 200 men, while over 100 men were taken captive by the attackers. The latter then boarded the steamer and rifled her of everything that she carried, and no doubt she had arms and ammunition on board. About 200 dead bodies were seen lying on the beach by the captain of a steamer that passed there later. Only ten or eleven of the regiment managed to escape and they came back to Ichang on the Fookyuen a couple of days ago. It is not certain whether the attackers were southern (Szechuen) soldiers or brigands, but the regiment that has been annihilated was going to reinforce General Yang Sen. The Ankong now lies uncared for at Chungchow.

The road to Shinan is still infested by robbers. Two more men were brought into hospital here two days ago. They had been to the Shinan district selling cloth, and were returning with the money when they were attacked near Tsao Chia Fan, robbed of their money, also received several bullet wounds.

The opium trade is still thriving, and much has been cultivated in the Shinan district under the patronage of the General in charge; large quantities are also being transported from Szechuen and within the last few days there have been two seizures from steamers.

Father Mallotto In Pitiable Condition

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 6.—Reports from Hankow disclose that Father Mallotto is in a pitiable condition. Though he is not badly treated he is very sick. The efforts of the French and Italian Consuls to secure his release have been unavailing as the local authorities are powerless.

On June 28 troops were sent to engage the bandits but were badly beaten by the brigands' increasing army.

DISCOUNT RATE

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—The Bank of ngland today raised its discount ate from three percent to four ercent.

INTENSE excitement prevailed yesterday in the offices of the Equitable Eastern Banking Corporation, presided over by Jas. J. (as he signs himself in the Hong Book) familiarly known as Jimmy Rogers, of Clifton, New Jersey, where the skeeters are so big that Jimmy was immune from their attacks for the mathematical reason that they couldn't get a foothold on him.

Great excitement prevailed not only in the offices of the well-known financial institooshun presided over by Mr. Rogers, who as previously mentioned hails from Clifton, New Jersey, which Jimmy says has a paid fire department (a boast that has never been verified) but also in Kiukiang Road generally, from the Bund to Trinity Cathedral compound, and around the corner into Szechuen road. The excitement was so great, in fact, that the whole Arnhold building trembled, as though an earthquake had struck it; a statement that will be substantiated by both Jimmy Sadon and Hank De Vault, of Haskin and Sells, with offices upstairs, who will tell you if you ask them that the little dragon paperweights on their desks quivered and shook clear to the ends of their little brass tails.

And all because Jimmy Rogers' compradore got a fly in his ear!

JIMMY Rogers, of Clifton, New Jersey, which Jimmy says is on the main line of the Lackawanna (which statement has never been verified) was seated at one side of and slightly underneath the immense teakwood desk in his office when his official attention was attracted by the commotion outside.

"Hey, what thing," asked Jimmy, who, hailing from Clifton, New Jersey (where the native who sees the first robin in the springtime is the town hero) was conscious of a feeling of jealous indignation because something extraordinary had happened in his own office and had been discovered by someone other than himself.

"Compradore have fly in head," explained See Ching, the door boy.

AND sure enough, the compradore had a fly in his head. To Jimmy, to whom (due to his long residence in Clifton, New Jersey) such a simple thing as the appearance of a hawk in the sky would have been an extraordinary occurrence, this was indeed a tragic happening, and one that called for instant and big scale relief measures.

"Chee! Rans mit all of you! Beat it!" cried Jimmy, rushing to the side of the stricken compradore, who was turning himself in a circle, and pounding the other side of his head frantically.

"Get some water!" shouted Jimmy, harking back in memory to the time that Aunt Elizabeth Pembroke fainted at the Ringling circus parade in Clifton, on which occasion he had heard old Doc. Udell call for water with which to revive her.

"Get some water, you idiots!" he commanded.

So they came running—boys, clerks, coolies, sub-managers, bookkeepers, cashiers and stenographers—all with receptacles containing water, and Jimmy, not knowing what else to do, proceeded to pour water in the compradore's ear; that is, he poured a little of it in the compradore's ear, the rest of it finding its way down the compradorean neck.

"HAVE go?" asked Jimmy of the compradore, pausing in his irrigation process.

The compradore shook his head tentatively, and discovered that the fly was by no means, as they say in Chinese circles, finish.

"No have go," he replied, emphasizing his verdict by a vigorous renewal of the pounding and spinning process.

JIMMY was puzzled, but only for a minute. "Boy," he shouted, "telephone Doc. Clarke, quick, chop chop!"

Doc, when Jimmy finally got him on the telephone, was skeptical.

"Honest to Gawd," pleaded Jimmy, "this is no joke; I tell you he's got a fly in his ear!"

"Terrible," said Doc, laughing.

"Harry, Doc," begged Jimmy, "I tell you the poor fellow is suffering something awful!"

"Why don't you dig the fly out with a corkscrew," suggested Doc, still refusing to get excited about it.

"Lay off, Doc," pleaded Jimmy, "I tell you it's desperate; the fly's right in his ear, buzzin' something awful! On the level, Doc, you've got to come over here, quick! Suppose the fly get's into his brain? Honest, Doc, it may kill him!"

SO Doc. Clarke, more out of friendship for Jimmy than from the urge of his professional instinct, finally gathered up a few of the probes, drills, surgical tweezers, fly magnets, suction pumps, drag nets and other paraphernalia of the sort that physicians use to extract flies from the ears of compradores and others and proceeded to Jimmy's office.

Arriving there, he found a state of complete normalcy, so to speak. The doorman was standing at attention; stenographers were pounding the tar out of their patient Remingtons; cashiers were taking in, with a bored air, the large rolls of kale seeds that customers were shoving at them through the grated windows, and Jimmy himself, formerly of Clifton, New Jersey, was seated at one side of and slightly underneath the immense teakwood desk in his private office debating, in his own mind, whether it would be safe to honor a request from his friend Stitt, of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, who had just sent over on urgent note saying that the financial institution of which he was the head needed a loan of two hundred taels with which to complete the new building on the Bund, and would Jimmy accommodate him, provided proper security were offered?

"Where is that compradore with the fly in his ear?" Doc Clarke asked the first Chinese he met.

The boy looked at him a minute, not immediately comprehending, for the incident had passed from his mind; but suddenly he remembered.

"Fly have flo," he said.

Says Mothers Need Outside Interest

Mrs. Katherine B. Clay

EVERY mother should have an outside interest." So says Mrs. Katherine Bouton Clay, of Newark, New Jersey, mother of three children, who has received an A. B. degree from Barnard College, New York—the first woman of her position and years to attain such an honor. She performed her seemingly impossible task of doing house-work and earning a college degree—after ten years of devotion to her family—by utilising every spare moment, doing most of her studying on subway trains. Mrs. Clay now plans to try for higher honors, she has stated.

Organise Big Lumber Concern In Manchuria

Concerning the proposed organisation of a syndicate for tapping the Kirin Forests, a new company capitalised at G.Y.8,500,000 and counting among the chief investors such powerful houses as the Mitsuis, the Okuras, etc., of Japan was incorporated under the style "Kyoyeki Kigyo Kabushiki Kaisha (Mutual Enterprise Co., Ltd.) and the same was formally registered with the Japanese Consulate, Changchun, on June 11, says the Manchurian Daily News.

The Fengtsai Kungsu has put up G.Y.5,000,000 and the Hsinglin Kungsu (both connected with the Okuras), G.Y.1,000,000, the Funing Kungsu (G.Y.1,000,000) financed by the Oji Paper Mill, Ltd., near Tokio, the Huasen Kungsu (G.Y.-2,000,000) and the Huangchuan Kungsu (G.Y.1,000,000), all the three falling under the Mitsui influence.

All the five companies above enumerated are to be maintained for the present, in order to operate conjointly with the new Company.

However, time is expected to arrive some day, when all of them will get amalgamated into one powerful syndicate lying under Sino-Japanese join management.

The new company chiefly aims at looking after such interests as are involved in the construction of railways and electricity works, the management of the forests, etc.

To begin with, it will undertake to act as sole agents to the five lumber companies in the sale of their outputs.

They have hitherto confined their operations mostly to Kirin Province, but are planning to extend their activity to North Manchuria in general.

The capital of G.Y.8,500,000 represents the portion of the total investments made so far in the five lumber companies amounting to some G.Y.14,000,000, that is considered as quite safe and sound.

In the near future, the sum of G.Y.1,500,000 is to be added to the capital of G.Y.8,500,000, with both Mitsuis and Okuras for preferential investors.

In the event of the scheme of the wholesale amalgamation, referred to above, taking form, to be placed under Sino-Japanese management, the capital of the new great syndicate may be further raised to G.Y.30,000,000 or more.

The establishment of the new company (Mutual Enterprise Co.) caused more or less misgiving on the part of the Chinese side. However, thanks to the explanations of Mr. K. Kono, as volunteered by him at Peking and Tientsin, a good understanding on the scheme has been established, and the scheme has matured happily at length.

CHINESE SOCIETY OF ENGINEERS ARE IN CONFERENCE

The first annual conference of the Chinese Engineering Society, the membership of which consists almost entirely of students who are still studying or taking up practical work in the States and those who have returned and are connected with educational or engineering work, is being held at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. building, Szechuen Road. An interesting and appropriate program has been prepared. Well-known engineers such as Mr. Hartman, sugar expert and adviser to the newly organised Chinese Sugar Refinery Co., have been invited to give platform addresses at the conference. Visits to the Shanghai Water Works, the Riverside Power Plant, the Gas works and the China Edison Lamps Works have been scheduled. Members of the Society are to present papers on various phases of engineering work in this country.

It might be interesting to recall that the Chinese Engineering Society was started a little over 7 years ago by a small group of students who were then employed by some of the largest engineering concerns in the States and who were inspired by what the engineering societies in America were doing. Through the efforts of those few the Society was quietly but hopefully formed. The first annual conference called in the States took place the following year. In the coming September the members of the American Section will hold the sixth annual gathering in the history of the Society.

During this brief period quite a few of the members have returned. Three branch sections have formed besides the central organisation which has been recently moved to this country. This coming conference opens a new chapter in the activities of the Society as, up to the present, it has not been able to arrange a general meeting of this nature to be participated by a large number of its members. It is expected that delegates of all sections will be present at the Conference and active program for the coming years will be taken up at the business meetings.

The program of the conference is as follows:

SATURDAY, JULY 7

8 a.m. Assembled at 60 Kiangse Road.
8 a.m. Visits to the China Edison Works.
9 to 12 a.m. Gas Works.
12 a.m. Y. M. C. A. cafe for luncheon.
2 p.m. Business meeting presided by C. C. Woo.
4 p.m. Platform address by Mr Hartman.
8 p.m. Paper presentation—Y. T. Yang "Efficiency of a Steam operated Power Plant."
9:30 p.m. Open qorum by P. H. Hsu.

SUNDAY, JULY 8

8 a.m. Assembled at 60 Kiangse Road.
8 a.m. Visits to the Riverside Power Station and.
8 to 12 a.m. Waterworks.
12 a.m. Chinese luncheon at the Great Eastern Hotel.
2 p.m. Conference picture at the Chung Hua Photographer
3 p.m. Paper by C. C. Woo "Chemical Industry, Past, Present and Future."
7 p.m. Conference banquet at the Ningpo Guild, 4 Thibet Road.

Del Monte To Have 16 Girls In Ballet

The Del Monte attraction next week is to be the most unique and unusual ballet ever offered in Shanghai—a sixteen girl ballet. The Del Monte ballets always have been the largest and best in the city, and a great many of the popular cafe's patrons thought the management was going some when it offered a twelve girl ballet. Now four more girls are to be added, making the show of regular Broadway size.

Four additional girls are coming from Japan, and the word has leaked out that they are beauties, too; and all good singers.

With this large number of girls to achieve his effects, Ballet Master Domoratsky of the Del Monte organisation has promised to show Shanghai something that will open its individual and collective eyes, and already he is busy with plans for his next show.

In the meantime the "living statues" ballet continues tonight and tomorrow night ,and all who have not seen this wonderful show had better make their reservations [illegible] people continue to enter in the notion that they can go to Del Monte anytime and find a table waiting for them. This is not always true, as the fine shows that have been staged there in recent weeks has so attracted the crowds that on some nights it is impossible for all who want to see the show to find seats. This has been particularly true this week, with the Living Statues as the bill.

SOME MEN ARE HONEST BECAUSE THEY ARE POOR, AND SOME OTHERS ARE POOR BECAUSE THEY ARE HONEST

Luis Firpo, Argentine Heavyweight, To Fight Ex-Champ Willard Today

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Pittsburg, July 6.—Luis Firpo, heavyweight Champion of South America, and Jess Willard, former world's champion, both declared they were in first-class condition and would win when they enter the ring tomorrow.

Both men look fit in every way and while Willard has been working extremely hard and has many backers the general betting public favors the big South American to win. Bets on a knockout are even.

The match is attracting great attention in view of the narrow margin by which Dempsey won over Gibbons as the winner of tomorrow's fight is looked upon as the logical contender for the title. If Willard wins it is assumed he will be matched with Dempsey for another try at the title. If Firpo wins he will probably be matched with Gibbons, the winner to fight the champion.

Dempsey-Gibbons Fight

Shelby, Mont., July 4.—Following is an account of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight, by rounds:

Round Three—Dempsey drove a right and left to the body and then clinched. Dempsey repeated with the same punches and landed Gibbons on the jaw with a left hook, forcing him to clinch. Gibbons feinted and backed away. Dempsey was short with a left but connected with a right. He butted Tom's body with a right. Gibbons landed two lefts and a right to the jaw. Dempsey was short with a left. He attempted to swing Gibbons off his feet but Gibbons clinched and Dempsey landed a right and left to the body. Tom pounded the champion's mid-section as they came together. Jack dug a hard right into Tom's stomach. He landed another right to the same spot. Gibbons swung a right to the jaw. Bell.

Round Four—Dempsey hooked to the stomach and Tom clinched the champion and punched him around the head with rights at close quarters. Gibbons backed into a corner to avoid two lefts. When he came out they clinched and Dempsey hurt him with body punches. Dempsey kept pounding Gibbons in the back of the head in the clinches. Dempsey took a left hook back of the ear. The champion sunk his right into body. Gibbons took a hook on the forehead and clinched. Dempsey landed a left hook and a solid left. In return Gibbons hooked a left to the jaw and right to the head. Dempsey was punishing severely with short body punches at the bell. Dempsey was bleeding from an old wound over his left eye.

Round Five—Dempsey missed a left to the body as they fell into a clinch. Gibbons poked two lefts to the head. Dempsey missed a left and Tom clinched. Gibbons hooked two lefts to the head and nailed him with a solid right to the jaw, forcing him to clinch. Gibbons danced away, forcing Dempsey to follow him. Tom poked a left into Dempsey's face. Dempsey landed a right to the body and Gibbons a left to the head. Dempsey shot a left to the head and Gibbons did the same. Gibbons hooked a left to Dempsey's eye. Bell.

Round Six—Dempsey's left was short in a clinch and the referee was forced to go between them. Gibbons danced away from Dempsey's leads in the clinch. Dempsey hit Tom on the chin with short rights. Gibbons ducked a right and his head went through the top rope of the ring. Dempsey pulled him back and the crowd booed. They traded lefts. Gibbons missed a left and in the clinch pounded his foe on the top of the head with rabbit punches. Dempsey hooked a right and left to the body. Dempsey shot a left to the body on his shift and shot a left to the jaw. Gibbons nailed the Champion with a left hook to the chin, when the round ended. Bell.

Round Seven—Dempsey delivered a left to body and left to jaw as Gibbons came in. The Champion hooked him with a right to the chin. Gibbons hooked one back after the breakaway. Dempsey swung another right to the jaw and Gibbons hooked him with a left at close quarters. Gibbons backed away from hard left. In the clinch Dempsey kept hooking rights and lefts to Gibbons' jaw. Gibbons backed in to the ropes to escape the punches. He appeared to be weakening under the body punching.

Round Eight—Gibbons missed two lefts and Gibbons hooked a left to head. In the clinch they traded punches to the head. Gibbons put over two lefts to the head. Dempsey drove a right to body and lefts to the head. Dempsey landed to head and Gibbons smashed the Champion with left to chin. He hooked Jack to the same spot. In the clinch Dempsey smashed Gibbons with a left jaw. Gibbons backed in to the ropes and hooked Dempsey high on the head with a left. Gibbons swung a right to Dempsey's chin as they clinched.

Round Nine—Dempsey brought short rights and lefts to Gibbons' face. Dempsey feinted and Gibbons backed away, falling into a clinch. Dempsey fell short on a left. Gibbons backed off from a left and exchanged lefts with Dempsey. Gibbons landed a light left to the body as they came together. The elusive Gibbons was getting to be a target for the Champion. Dempsey hooked a left to nose and Gibbons drove a left to Dempsey's chin and as they came together hooked two lefts to head. Gibbons swung two lefts and rights to Dempsey's head. They exchanged lefts. Dempsey drove Gibbons in to the ropes under a bombardment on lefts and rights. Gibbons hoked the Champion with a right and left in to the Champion's stomach.

TENNIS FINALS SET FOR TODAY AT WIMBLEDON

Americans, Hunter And Johnston, In Big Match

(Reuter's Service)

Wimbledon, July 5.—The day was blazing hot and there were 15,000 spectators at the All England Club today.

The finals of the Ladies' Singles will be played tomorrow and the final of the Men's Singles will be played on Saturday.

In the fourth round of the Ladies' Doubles Mlle Lenglen and Miss Ryan beat Mrs. Beamish and Mrs. McNair, 6-1, 6-2.

In the fourth round of the Mixed Doubles Richards and Mrs. Mallory beat Crawley and Miss McKane, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

In the fourth round of the Men's Doubles Count De Gomar and Flaquer beat Lacoste and Borotra, 11-9, 4-6, 6-4, 3-6, 7-5.

The match of the day was the Franco-Spanish semi-final. The Spaniards were a beautifully balanced pair. The Frenchmen were more brilliant but more erratic. Count de Gomar had the better of some thrilling rallies with Borotra, while his wonderfully accurate lobbing played a great part in the victory. The Spaniards will meet the winners of the tie between Lycett and Godfree v Deane and Fyzee in the final.

In the semi-final of the Mixed Doubles Lycett and Miss Ryan beat Washer and Mlle Lenglen, 7-5, 6-3. The lady champion was faulty. Miss Ryan was brilliant at the net and outshone her. The victory was most enthusiastically applauded.

In the fourth round of the Ladies' Doubles Miss Austen and Miss Colyer beat Miss Goss and Mlle Vlasto, 7-5, 8-6.

In the fourth round of the Mixed Doubles Deane and Mrs. Barron beat Hillyard and Mrs. Satterthwaite, 8-6, 4-6, 6-3.

Nick Replies

Sporting Editor: I have noticed a letter in your paper refering to Filipinos not getting a square deal at the Stadium and also that when they fight the referee some times is their opponent's manager or trainer and he goes as far as to comment on my fight with Toledo about Toledo getting a raw deal when he lost a close decision to me. Well Mr. Editor if you will kindly concede me this little space I would like to remark: In the first place the Filipinos get a much better deal here at the Stadium than the foreign boys do in Manila as I personally have fought thirty-five fights in and around Manila. I once knocked a Filipino down for the count and a little bit more than the count, twice in the one fight and then got disqualified for fouling because I worked on his body a little too much, they said I was hitting too low.

Secondly, in my fight with Toledo which was a four round fight the first round a draw, the second mine and the third Toledo's and the last mine, I don't quite see why so much fuss should be made or why the manager of the Filipino boxers should write about raw deals. Well, as all this talk has been going on, if there is any boy supposed to have been given a raw deal in his fight with me he can fight me again when and where he likes any number of rounds and please thank the best sportsman of all, the Shanghai fight fans for their kindness and consideration to me after my ten round fight with Charlie White. Thanking you in anticipation for this space I am,

Nick Boyle,

The team is composed of Major Francis W. Honeycutt, U.S.A., F. Barnard O'Connor and Chauncey R. McPherson of the New York Athletic Club, Leon M. Schoonmaker, Henry Breckinridge, Arthur S. Lyon and Rene Peroy of the New York Fencer's Club, Lieut. George C. Calnan, U.S.A., William H. Russell of the Boston Athletic Association, Major Harold Rayner and Warrant Officer John Dimond of the United States Military Academy, and one more to be selected from among the alternates.

Major Honeycutt led the successful team in Great Britain in 1921 and captained the American team in the Olympics.

YACHT RACE GOES OVER

The bi-weekly yacht race which was scheduled for Thursday afternoon had to be postponed on account of the weather, for although it was not raining there was absolutely no wind.

The members of the Yacht Club are hoping that the weather conditions next week will allow a race for Tuesday. The Violet, Ciatos, Ella, Haikwan and a few other yachts will probably take part in the meeting next Tuesday.

Gibbons covered to evade Dempsey's rushes. Gibbons was tirquickly and seeking protection in clinches from Dempsey's vicious rights and lefts to the head. The bell sounded ending the round and the fight.

Horse Breaks Record With 8-Foot Jump

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, June 9.—Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody's Great Heart, an eight year old thoroughbred, broke the world's high jumping record for horses when he cleared a hurdle at eight feet and 13-16 inches at the South Shore country club horse show here yesterday.

The old record, eight feet and 1-2 inches, was set by Confidence at Coburg, Ont., in 1903.

TWO ABSORBING and THRILLING DRAMAS with the CELEBRATED RUSSIAN ACTORS

M. MOSJOOKIN and Mme LISENKO

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, will be screened

"JUSTICE FIRST"

SIX REELS

"Justice First" is an intensely dramatic story of the conflicting emotions of Octave Granier' Prosecuting attorney general, when he is compelled to do his duty.

M. Mosjookin's portrayal of the attorney when circumstances compel to conduct the prosecution against the woman he loves, and to press for capital punishment on the charge of murder laid against her is startlingly realistic while the part of the sweetheart, played by Mme. Lisenko, the beautiful stage star, is gripping in the extreme.

On Thurs. to Sun., July 12th to 15th, at 9.15 p.m.

"HER TRIAL"

SIX REELS

is a powerful story of intense human emotions in this dramatic French production Mme. LISENKO is seen in her artistic and emotional best.

Jealousy, intrigue, revenge and love all take their turn upon the stage of life, but as always, love and good prevail, and the story ends with a beautiful romance. The action is swift and intense, and Mme. LISENKO touches dramatic heights never before reached by any other screen actress.

Guard At Germany's Back Door

BY G. WARD PRICE

Posen, Poland.

People who criticise the French occupation of the Ruhr would take a different view if they lived in Poland. For in that operation the Poles see not only a lesson which Germany badly needed, but also a drawing of the dragon's teeth.

The disablement which it causes to Germany may—if she pays up—be only temporary, but, nevertheless, the Poles have respite from the apprehension of attack so long as the French are in possession of the chief German arsenal and coalfield.

The easy-going belief, held by some ill-informed people in England, that Germany's defeat in the Great War was too crushing for her ever again to undertake a war of deliberate aggression, simply astounds the Poles. They have good reason to know the Germans well—especially the Poles of this province of Posen, who for 150 years had an opportunity of studying them from under the heel of the Prussian jackboot.

It would be pleasanter for the Polish people if they could take the view that Germany would be an inoffensive neighbor in the future, but they see clearly that with its numbers, its scientific genius, and its powers of organisation the German nation is not only resentful at heart but potentially formidable, and that until the Ruhr was occupied it was rapidly advancing towards the stage of being actually formidable.

The Poles have a thousand reasons for desiring peace and none for seeking war, but it is their conviction that the German mind regards the Great War as having been but the first act of a world-drama, and that Germany will seek to carry the tragedy a stage farther if the rest of civilisation does not take precautions in time. Some people in England are inclined to think of the Poles as rather a swashbuckling nation. One glance at the new map of Europe ought to dispose of this idea. A light-weight between two pugnacious heavy-weights usually sits still, and Poland, with frontiers devoid of all natural defences, is sandwiched in between those two great forces, whose malignancy still threatens the peace of Europe—Germany and Russia. On one side, Russia, with 130 millions of population; on the other, Germany, with 60 millions, rapidly increasing—and, in the middle, Poland, a State reconstituted by the Allies out of territory taken from and still coveted by both of them, with only 28 millions of inhabitants!

It is the genuine apprehensions to which this situation gives rise that cause the Poles to spend seven-tenths of their national income on their Army. What the Polish Army will cost in 1923 is, indeed, exactly the amount of the estimated Budget deficit for the year.

It has 30 divisions of 15,000 men, and on mobilisation, when reserves were called up, it would number nearly three-quarters of a million.

It has 48 aeroplane squadrons of 12 machines each, some of French, some of British type.

The artillery is entirely French, and includes batteries of the heaviest howitzers, though how many is not divulged.

There are 40 regiments of cavalry of over 800 men, for on this central European plain, and especially against the Red Army, which would probably be lacking in complete modern material equipment, the Poles believe the cavalry would still play an important role.

Marshal Foch has been taking a look at this Polish Army, and he endorses the view of its French military instructors that it is well on the way to become a first-class fighting force. Lord Cavan, our own Chief of Staff, is also seeing something of it at the moment of writing.

Except for the four-cornered Polish cap, the general appearance of the troops is very like the French, though the men are more robust than the average Frenchman.

Material equipment is still a good deal mixed, and there one touches a point that is at present characteristic of the revived Polish nation. It is a country that has been reunited after being divided for over a century between Russia, Germany, and Austria, and you can still see the joins.

For the three parts of Poland bear the marks of different moulds. Posen is unmistakably Prussian in appearance; Warsaw has a primitive Russian character, and the easy-going amiability of the vanished Austrian Empire still breathes in the picturesque streets of Cracow.

In the Polish Army his divergence of past experience is strikingly present. Of the senior officers one may say that one-half was fighting against the [illegible] in the Great War.

In the headquarters mess of an army corps near Posen I heard the corps-commander mention that Marshal Foch was sitting in the very chair where the German Emperor had often sat at military dinners of his troops, and, looking round the room, one saw Polish generals and colonels bearing the unmistakable stamp of Prussian training who must have feted in that same place the monarch whom Foch overthrew, while the brother Polish officer sitting next to them may well at that time have been in the Russian Army, their open adversary.

None of them is the less good Pole for that, but these contrasts reflect the composite origin of modern Poland.

That this handicap is so rapidly disappearing is good proof of the intensity of the racial spirit of the Poles, and a hopeful augury for the future vigour of their country.

Noted Concert Singer Poison-Pen Victim

Miss Eva Gauthier

MISS Eva Gauthier, noted concert singer, of New York City, is one of the ten women hit by the slurs of the poison-pen writer whose case is now before the Grand Jury, George Maxwell, noted composer and music publisher, now in Europe, is under indictment as the writer, but he is returning post-haste to fight the charges, which he denies in toto, declaring he himself was a victim.

Agreement Chinese Mine

The mercury mine of Dongshun-hsien, Kweichow, has been in operation many years. If what the natives say is dependable, their ancestors were engaged in mercury mining in the Ming Dynasty, 1368-1644. The veins are found in the lime stone strata and in isolated patches or pockets. There are two kinds of mercury. One is red and transparent and the other, dark-red and opaque. The latter contains a small amount of antimony, but both contain no pyrite.

The methods used in opening the mine and in smelting the mineral are very poor and crude. In opening a mine holes are drilled to a certain depth and into them two to three pounds of gunpower are introduced. The result of the explosion after the ignition of the gunpowder is two to three hundred pounds of mercury ore. After the breaking up of the rocks into small particles, they are put into the native furnace for smelting. The furnace consists of three boilers and one earthenware basin. Over the brick foundation of the furnace the first boiler is placed and the second boiler up-side-down on the first, a twelve inch hole being made in its center. The second boiler is covered with mud held in place by a bamboo network and upon this the third boiler, also with a hole in the center, is placed. This third boiler is then covered by an earthen ware basin. After heating, the mercury is evaporated and condensed on the entire surface of the earthenware basin. This is rubbed off and put into bamboo tubes. The mercury obtained in this way is ready for sale.

LONDON INQUIRY INTO 'SEDITIOUS' SCHOOLS ORDERED

London, July 4.—A petition with more than 1,000 signatures has been presented to the present parliament asking that the House of Commons explore the existence and growth of what are known as "proletarian Sunday schools," which, in the opinion of the petitioners, are "fast becoming a menace to the stability of the constitution of this country, as well as to our national character, moral standards and home life."

The petition charges that these Sunday schools are engaged in the teaching of Communist principles, sedition and blasphemous ideas on all religion.

Amateur Fliers In Britain Can Now Buy Planes At £100

London, June 21.—Airplane flying promises to become as popular in England as bicycling or motoring. British manufacturers are now perfecting light models of aircraft that will cost little more than a motorcycle. They are fitted with small engines of four horsepower and have a speed of 50 miles an hour. They leave the ground with a few yards run and land at less than 25 miles an hour. The dangers are less formidable than those of the big flying machines, and anyone with a rudimentary knowledge of mechanics can handle the new models.

In an effort further to popularise flying, the British under secretary of State for Air has offered a prize of £2,500 for a light airplane competition confined to British machines with a maximum of 8 horsepower.

The cost of the airplane when completed is not to exceed £100. A commendable condition is ability for the machine to be transported a mile by two persons within three hours, the test to include getting out of a field through the ordinary field gate and traveling along an average country road. The competition is to take place in September over a triangular course of not less than 15 miles, and as the minimum distance which must be flown on the one gallon of gasoline is to be allowed is 50 miles, there will be ample encouragement to produce an economical machine.

The Rous Romance

London, May 20.—The Dublin correspondent of the Australian Press Association states: In the interval between De Valera's truce and the next outbreak of hostilities in Ireland, people are turning from the alarms of war to the romance of the Lady Pleasance Rous who, with her wireless operator husband, is honey-mooning in the little village of Bragan. The home is the usual Irish country cottage, complete with the inevitable pig and the open fire on the hearth. Lady Rous has made herself quite at home there. She insists on the villagers calling her "Lizzie," and spends her time feeding the chickens and playing with the barefooted children of the neighbourhood.

When interviewed, the young couple denied the existance of plans for the future. Mr. M Kenna's leave from his ship expires in the middle of June, but it is very unlikely that he will rejoin it. Lady Rous is anxious to dispel the idea that she became a Roman Catholic on her husband's account. She declares that she was brought up as a Roman Catholic, and for eight years has been preparing herself for formal reception into the Church, which took place in the middle of April. The seat of the honeymoon is besieged by Pressmen, and local worthies are getting far more publicity than they had ever hoped to secure.

Evangelist In Belfast Starts Wave Of Reform

Belfast, July 4.—This city is becoming so moral that one wonders if a policeman will be sure of a job in the future, says the Evening News correspondent, who records that: "Petty thieving is on the decline. Many employers have received back stolen goods. Dozens of bags of tools 'borrowed' from shipyards have been returned. A grocer was paid £5 that a woman customer had owed him for 20 years. For over an hour an ex-sailor tried to persuade the local pensions staff that he was not entitled to a weekly disablement grant he had been drawing."

All this moral "uplift" is ascribed to the great religious revival conducted by Paston Nicholson, who is escorted everywhere by a band of 70 chosen from his thousands of converts. It is necessary to go to church two hours before time to hear him preach, and men forego their supper and march direct from their shipyard work in the evening to listen to him.

Queen Lil's Will Resists 4 Suits In Hawaii Court

Honolulu, (By mail)—Litigation over the will of the late Queen Liliuokalani, last reigning monarch in Hawaii, which has occupied the courts here since her death in 1917, has been terminated with the withdrawing of the suit filed by Mrs. Kahakauilakeliimoewaiowaiaulia (correct) Keawe Newihie to break the testament. The 30-letter name means "Thundering Chiefess of the Sleeping Waters."

Mrs. Nawahie's action was the fourth that had been brought in an effort to overturn the will. She contended that she was the next of kin to the former queen.

The first suit was filed by the late Prince Jonah Kuhio Kalanianaole, former delegate to Congress, and was settled by compromise.

The second suit, filed by Mrs. Emma K. De Fries, was dismissed.

The third action, based on a will which named the "Princess" Theresa Owana Wilcox Bellilveau Kelley and two other persons as beneficiaries, also was dismissed by the territorial supreme court.

This suit had a sensational aftermath. A Hawaiian minister, who testified that he witnessed the signature of the late queen to the document, told his attorney that he had a vision or a dream, and confessed that the will was a fraud on the part of later "Princess Theresa." As the result she was convicted of forgery and was sentenced to three years' imprisonment. She was released recently at the conclusion of her term.

Mrs. Nawahie's contest was dismissed some time ago on the ground that she had failed to prove her contention that she was related to the queen. She appealed to a jury but after long court delays withdrew her suit, she told the court, because all of the attorneys she consulted told her that her case was without merit.

Spanish War Vets Would Keep Dewey's Flagship

Philadelphia, Pa., July 4.—A petition is being prepared by the Association of Spanish War Veterans to be forwarded to Washington in an effort to have the name of the Olympia, flagship of the American fleet at the battle of Manila Bay, removed from the list of vessels to be scrapped.

If the gallant ship can be preserved, the Spanish War Veterans plan to refit it as a memorial to shelter the trophies awarded to Admiral Dewey, the ship, and the members of the crew after the Spanish flotilla was defeated.

The Olympia is fast rotting and rusting away in the lagoon at the Philadelphia navy yard. So antiquated now is the famous battle cruiser that one shot from a modern dreadnought would send her to the bottom.

Community Church Services Downtown

The Community Church will continue to hold its afternoon meetings downtown through the summer. As soon as possible the services will be changed from the Masonic Hall to the new Navy "Y." Last year services were discontinued downtown for several weeks, but the Governing Board felt that in view of the new interest awakened that it would be best to conduct services throughout the summer, both in the morning and in the afternoon.

Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai

NOTICE

MUNICIPAL LOAN OF 1923

8.000 debentures of Tls. 100 each (issued at Tls. 97 each)

Rate of interest 6% per annum

The "Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai" hereby invite subscriptions for 8.000 debentures of Tls. 100 each, issued at Tls. 97 each according to the resolution passed at their General Meeting on the 14th May 1923.

The conditions on which the Debenture Certificates will be issued are:

1°.—The Debenture Certificates are transferable, and the person whose name is entered in the Register of Debenture Certificate or Certificates, shall alone be recognised and treated by the Council as the lawful and rightful holder and owner of such Debenture Certificate or Certificates.

2°.—The Debentures will be issued at Tls. 97 each.

3°.—The Debentures will be redeemable at par (Tls. 100 each) in not less than 10 years and not more than 30 years, from 1st December 1933 and according to the figures determinated by the Council.

4°.—The Debentures will bear interest at 6% per annum, payable on the 31st day of May and 30th day of November in each year, when interest warrants will be issued to the registered owners.

5°.—The Debenture Certificates will be issued and bear interest from 1st July 1923.

6°.—Applications for Debentures will be received at the Secretary's Office, Rue du Consulat, from June 20 next.

A cheque representing the amount of debentures asked for and payable on June 30th must be deposited at the same time.

7°.—Applications for Debentures under 97 will not be recognised by the Council.

8°.—For further informations, apply to Mr. P. Legendre, Secretary, French Municipal Council.

Shanghai, 31st May 1923.

By order,

P. LEGENDRE
Secretary.

Glacial Move Indicates New Ice Age Is Beginning

(Foreign Press Service)

Wiscasset, Me., June 26.—Capt. Donald B. MacMillan, who sailed from here June 15 on the little schooner Bowdoin to resume his Arctic explorations said that one purpose of the expedition is to determine whether another ice age is beginning, as the advance of glaciers in the last seventy years would indicate. Other purposes are study of terrestrial magnetism and atmospheric electricity, botany, ornithology and the obtaining of a series of photographs of bird and animal life. Thirty thousand feet of motion picture film also will be in the Bowdoin's outfit.

Long copper strips are being attached to the hull of the vessel to be used for a ground connection for the radio receiving and transmitting station which is being installed. Next winter radio fans will attempt to "copy" WNP (wireless north pole) and get the latest polar news. The American radio relay league, composed of thousands of amateurs, which has made possible most of the long distance transmission records, is co-operating with the expedition and every evening its many members all over North America will be on the alert for signals.

Whether communication through the northern lights will be possible has been hotly debated. This experiment will answer the question as the MacMillian party is going far beyond the lights to winter either at Cape Cabine, if ice conditions permit, or at Jones Sound. The former is about 11 degrees from the north pole.

The tablet which the National Geographic Society trustees have authorised Capt. MacMillan to erect in memory of the Greeley expedition of 1884 will be placed on the rock cliff facing Camp Clay, Cape Sabine, where eighteen men of the expedition died of starvation and exposure.

Bandits Attack Japanese Police; Two Are Killed

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 6.—Chinese and Korean bandits who are making their headquarters at Antuhsien crossed the Korean border early in the morning of July 3 and attacked a detached Japanese police station at Hsitung and cut the telegraph and telephone lines.

After an hour's fierce fight the bandits were driven back across the border. The Japanese casualties were two policemen killed and two wounded.

Oldest Description Of Jesus Is Found

The oldest description of Jesus Christ has according to the "Matin" just been discovered in an old Latin text in the Vatican Library which has been revised under the supervision of Pope Pius XI. It is a police report under Pro-Consul Publius Lentulus, who, it is stated, was the predecessor of Pontius Pilate. The police description of Jesus Christ is as follows:—

He has long fair hair falling in curls on the shoulders. They are parted in the middle. Christ wears the double-pointed beard which is fairer than the hair. His eyes are light blue and wear a kind expression; but at times they flash under the stress of temper.

He is of normal build and stands erect. The voice is soft. He was never seen to laugh, but people often saw him cry. His hands are very well kept.

He is called Jesus, son of Mary. His friends also call him the son of God.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

July 6, 1923

Spot and forward bar silver were easy up a-tad, in London yesterday. The New York price was unchanged and the London-New York cross rate declined to 455¼. The only change in our official quotations here today was a rise in the Franc rate to 1170.

Our market in the early part of the morning was steady and became firm during the day. At the opening business in Sterling was done at 3-0⅝ for July, 3-0⅝ for August and 3-0½ for September. Gold Dollars were done at 69⅝ for July and 69½ for August.

However as speculators were again sellers today the market firmed up and at the Tiffin interval there were sellers of Sterling at 3-0⅞ for July, 3-0⅞ for August and 3-0⅝ for September. There were sellers of Gold Dollars at 69⅞ for July and 69⅝ for August-September.

Just before the close the market eased off somewhat again and closed with no sellers of Sterling at better than 3/0⅞ for July, 3/0⅞ August and 3/0⅝ for September.

The best sellers of Gold Dollars were offering 69¾ for July and 69⅝ for forward. There were sellers of Yen at 70 for July and 70⅛ for forward.

Banks were quoting 3/1⅝ for Sterling bills for near delivery and 3/1¾ for forward. They were quoting 71¾ for Gold Dollar bills for near delivery and 71½ for forward. There were no buyers of Franc bills under 1220.

China and India both bought silver in London yesterday and the market is reported as closing steady. New York report their market as firm.

George Hearst And Bride

George Hearst and bride.

GEORGE Hearst, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, has determined to learn journalism "from the ground up" and has secured a position with the San Francisco Examiner. He will make his home in the California city with his bride, who was Miss Blanche L. Wilbur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Wilbur, of Idaho Falls, Idaho, one of that State's most eminent families. Recently the son of the noted publisher and his bride were guests for several weeks at the home of his parents, in New York.

Cotton Reports

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton:—The action of the market during the past week has been very erratic, with a more general interest on the part of the outside public, which freely enlisted on the Bull side.

The unfavorable condition of the crop has been intensified by the continuation of bad weather throughout the Kiangsu and Chekiang cotton belts, cold and rainy weather prevailing during the major portion of the week. The crop outlook has undoubtedly been impaired somewhat in these sections, but taking the belts as a whole, there have been remarkably few complaints, showing, we think, that the situation is rather better than usual and certainly with much brighter prospects than last year.

While after such a wild advance as we have had we may have further erratic fluctuations and it may be hard to pick the top, we feel however, that those who sell the new crop positions around present prices will before long find such sales profitable.

Yarn:—The market has been quite firm during the early part of the week and at the close, the market seemed to be in favor of steady prices. Business for export about 5,000 to 6,000 bales has been booked, and over 5,000 direct business with the Mills has been recorded. From present indications a steady market is locked forward to for the near future.

SPUNTS REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their weekly report on the cotton market:

China Cotton:—Very little demand on the part of spinners for the local staple transpired during the past week, yet prices for spot cotton remained with hardly any fluctuations at the same level as that prevailing during the previous period. Mills are contemplating further curtailment should the yarn position develope no steady improvement and in such manner bring about an adequacy of their present supplies of raw material to meet their reduced spindleage, without having recourse to draw upon any available balance of the old season fibre at rates which they at present feel justly loath to accept. And while this policy is very much to be commended in those cases where there is a feasibility of such procedure being safely extended to the time when the new season cotton makes its appearance on the open market, yet there are very important factors not to be overlooked in the meanwhile, and that is the weather conditions and insect pests during the two critical months to come, and the vicissitudes such will have to undergo before the final fruition of the growing crop, which will ultimately define the quality and size of the new season's yield, and which consequently will decide as to the immediate value such will command. Viewing the new crop position at this time, the indications are that prices will be lower than obtaining now on stocks of the old crop, but whether such will materialise or not will depend largely on developments as they emerge as we draw nearer to the fruition stage of the 1923-24 season's crop. Tone of the market, steady.

FUNDAMENTALIST LEADERS DEPART, ATTACKING FOES

Atlantic City, by mail.—Two of the leaders of the Fundamentalist movement have left the convention of Northern Baptists, admitting the defeat of their cause and protesting against the "steam roller" methods alleged to be employed by the Modernists.

The cause of disappointment was the failure of the Fundamentalists to make any progress with their plan to force the convention to adopt a Declaration of Faith which might be used as a basis for discipling ministers preaching "heretical doctrines."

The action of the Rev. John Roach Straton in denouncing Dr. W. H. P. Faunce, of Brown University, on the opening day, added much to the unpopularity of the Fundamentalist movement and is generally attributed as one of the reasons for its defeat. With the departure of the Rev. Mr. Straton the leadership was assumed by Dr. J. C. Massee, pastor of Tremont Temple, Boston, and the Rev. J. Marvin Dean of California.

"We did not want to go to the door of the convention and be crushed by the steam roller," the Rev. Mr. Dean said. "So we decided to take no direct action this year. We have won a substantial victory in the denominational program, and we expect to go into the Milwaukee Convention next year with a larger representation that will force through our program."

A campaign for $12,000,000 is to be launched next November to finance the new World Movement during the current year. The various participating organizations are already indebted more than $4,000,000 and the campaign expenditures for the year will require in the neighborhood of $8,000,000.

Although the movement has been severely criticised since its inception, Dr. J. Y. Aitchison, General Director of the Board of Promotion, said he was thoroughly satisfied with the progress of the program, even if all its aims have not been attached. The church is finding some difficulty in collecing the pledges made to the new World Movement, owing to the fact that some of these obligations were made, it was explained, "during a period of prosperity," and since then some of the contributors had found their finances reduced.

The question of pension funds for ministers was brought up by the Rev. E. T. Tomlinson, Secretary of the Ministers' Benefit Board, the assets of which were said to be $10,000,000. The report of the board recommended $500 as the minimum amount to be paid annually to ministers upon retirement.

"The minister is set apart to do a specific work and he ought to be supported," said the Rev. Mr. Tomlinson. "The great majority of the people in our churches want to do the right thing and the average minister is earnest and consecrated. The Catholic Church solves the problem by precluding the possibility of a priest being burdened by a family, but the great majority of Baptists believe that a man knowing the joys and sorrows of home life has greatly increased his power of dealing with the vital problems of a congregation."

The entire convention rose at the close of the session in recognition of the support given by John D. Rockefeller to foreign and home missions.

Edward Bok And World Peace

IN our exclusive United Press cablegram of yesterday we recorded the offer of Edward Bok of $100,000 gold for "the best plan involving the co-operation of the United States in world peace." It is a notable offer, the fruit of a noble thought, characteristic and worthy of the man. Edward Bok was born in The Netherlands of poor parents who emigrated to the United States. The story of his boyhood struggle for an education is a epic. The Americanisation of "Edward Bok" is the most fascinating and instructive autobiography of recent years. He made himself one of America's greatest editors and as chief of The Ladies' Home Journal exerted an influence for good and beauty and unity in the American home that no other editor has even approached.

And while we are not yet familiar with the details of his offer, we infer that a committee will be appointed to pass upon the plans submitted, to make the award and submit the winning plan to the American people for their consideration. The imperative need of Europe for American co-operation for peace and restoration is being driven home to us with more emphasis every day. And yet the American people have rejected the League of Nations by a majority of over 7,000,000 qualified voters and are even disinclined to participate actively and officially in the deliberations of the World Court of International Justice. Their traditions coming down from the Founders are all against "entanglements" in the affairs of Europe and their experience during and subsequent to the World War were not such as would incline them to go over again.

But still they all feel that something must be done. They are willing enough to help as they have shown by the billions they have given to Europe both to friends and former enemies since Armistice Day. Their problem is, What to Do and How to Do It. How can they help to save Europe without interfering in the politics of Europe? If they should begin tinkering at the politics, there would be resentment on one side or the other and probably a situation even worse than that of the present would be created.

It is likely, we think, that some thoughts such as these brought Mr. Bok to the point of seeking throughout the world for a plan that would appeal to the people of the United States—a plan that would make them feel that they were welcome to do the things they would like to do.

Their thought at this time is that they can contribute money but not advice. And further they are deterred by the thought that maybe their advice even if accepted on all sides might prove to be useless. Europeans should and probably do know more than Americans about their own problems and how to settle them.

Our main point, however, is this: we think a Shanghai man or woman ought to be able to win this prize and by winning it contribute greatly towards the peace of the world. We live here, all nations, at peace with one another: we are a sort of League of Nations reduced to dimensions where the whole of its machinery can be seen at a glance. We manage to get along and are succeeding in building up a great city. Therefore the experience and outlook of Shanghai entrants in this competition are broader than would be possible to people living at home. We are better fitted to win.

In order therefore to stimulate interest in this vital matter THE CHINA PRESS proposes to offer a small prize, $100, for the best plan suggested by a resident of Shanghai or China. A committee will be formed to award the prize. All good suggestions will be printed and all plans, whether deemed good or otherwise, will be forwarded to the Edward Bok Committee and entered under whatever regulations shall have been devised.

What is your best plan for enabling the United States to co-operate for World Peace?

Correspondence

MUTINY IN KAIFENG

EDITOR, THE CHINA PRESS.

On the night of June 20, a company of soldiers stationed in an arsenal outside the south suburb of this city mutinied and went into the south suburb, firing as they went and looted several shops. The firing and looting continued for some time but as far as could be learned no serious effort was made by the Military Governor to stop them, though there are many troops stationed here in this, the capital of the province. It is said that the mutineers tried without success to have other soldiers join them. The next morning a proclamation was posted saying that "the" or local bandits had raided the south suburb. This ridiculous statement was commented upon in a humorous fashion by everyone who knew the facts and the whole city knew that the offenders were soldiers, not local bandits. Some two days later twelve men were executed, a number of whom were petty officers not actually mutineers themselves but held responsible for the men getting out of hand. The soldiers and police are behind in their pay and the situation is dangerous but that does not deter the military authorities from enrolling recruits. These recruits are being received constantly. One can but marvel when the end will be when there is a continuous procession of recruits and there is no money for the soldiers already enrolled.

Two robberies inside the city within the past few weeks have made the inhabitants nervous. In one case three soldiers entered a cash shop and after killing one and wounding another of the shopmen carried off their booty. But one of the soldiers in his excitement dropped his cap in the shop and unfortunately for him and his partners in crime, his name was written inside the top. The petty police official who picked up the cap was at first afraid to report the matter to the authorities for fear of reprisals from the soldiers but he was induced eventually to do so. This resulted in the three men being executed inside the West gate on Thursday morning.

Bandits flourish around the city of Kweitch to the west of Kaifeng. There is an auto line between Kweitch and Pochow. One of the cars was held up, one man shot and the chauffeur forced to drive the robbers off to a distant place.

The cultivation of opium is proceeding merrily according to reports received here. A missionary reported to me that before his train reached Kweitch after having Hsuchowfu he counted one hundred and twenty six fields of poppy on one side of the train and he saw many other fields that he did not count.

The state of the public mind is quite disturbed at the political developments in the north at Peking. The feeling is general that a mistake was made by the militarists in driving out Li Yuan-hung from the Presidency.

Foreign residents in the interior have followed the accounts of the capture of the party at Lincheng with a great deal of interest. I am sure that I represent practically the united feeling of business and missionary opinion when I ask this question: When is this business of swapping foreigners for promotion in the army going to be stopped? Does it not set a price on the head of every man, woman and child in the interior and away from the protection of foreign gunboats. We have every sympathy with those who were in deadly danger at Paotzuku but the manner in which these captives were delivered has endangered the lives of all who have to live beyond the protection of foreign warships. It began last year with the ransom of foreigners from Lao Yang-ren by giving this rascal a brigadier-generalship in the army and receiving his cut throats as soldiers. Now these bandits by changing their uniforms did not suddenly become an army of saints. They have created trouble wherever they go. It amounts to this: in order to ransom a few foreigners a great band of hoodlums and worse are turned loose upon the innocent people of China as soldiers and other bandits are encouraged to go and do likewise. Already some bandits down in Hupeh have caught the cue and have seized a Catholic priest and so the merry game goes on. Why not publish a schedule of values of the foreigners in terms of promotions and enlistments in the Chinese army. With trembling I offer the following tentative scheme of values.

One missionary child exchanged for Lieutenancy and forty enlisted men.

One recently arrived missionary for Captaincy and one hundred men.

One young business men, (griffin) for Captaincy and two hundred men.

Gen. Avecpalmes (hero of world war) for General and 5,000 men.

One old missionary for colonel and 1,500 men.

A Sweep Stayke—noted horseman—for colonel and 1,500 men and so on.

Much discussion has been caused by the question as to who won the war and which race is really the true heir to all the ages and in the foremost files of time. Here is the chance to settle it. I suggest that each racial unit select a fit applicant of his people and then let each one go and "get himself caught" by the bandits. (Wu Pei-fu telegraphed all over China last year that the Honan missionaries "got themselves caught!"). Then by the demands of the bandits we will soon know what nation or race really won the war or would have won if they had a fair chance!

But this correspondent apologises for trifling with so serious a subject. And that it is serious who can doubt? Many of us believe that it is unethical to receive a set of scoundrels into the army even to save life—it only staves off the evil day of reckoning. And it turns loose a band of uniformed ruffians who instead of protecting the country are still robbers at heart and in practice as well.

"Missionary."

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

It doesn't matter much how far
Or fast you fall
If you can land without a jar
Or jolt at all;
It doesn't matter much how few
Your talents are
As long as you believe that you
Make envy burn in others who Think you're a star.

If you suppose your wit is keen
It matters not
That others think you've clogged your bean
With tommy-rot;
As long as you are happy in
Your own conceit
It matters not how others grin
At your absurd attempts to win
A lofty seat.

If you admire your form and face
You may be fat,
Or otherwise lack charm and grace,
Put what of that?
You may not fit the clothes you wear,
But if you're glad
Let other people turn and stare;
You only have the right to care
How you are clad.

If you are satisfied that Fate
Has you assigned
To grace a place among the great
You needn't mind
If others pass you with a smile;
At any rate,
If all is blank beneath your tile,
You can at least be hopeful while
You sit and wait.

Once Overs

BY J. J. MUNDY

When you have time to do pretty nearly all the things you want to do, how do you use it?

You dawdle around, stand on one foot, then on the other, and do not get down to actual work because you know you have so much time.

It would not take a minute to pick up after yourself and keep everything picked up as you go along, but you throw your hat one place, your gloves another, your papers are strewn from one end to the other, all because you realise that you have time enough for all that you have planned.

But the trouble is that this state of mind works exactly the opposite in result.

You get into such a lazy, loafing mood that it is actually hard for you to get yourself in hand at the last moment to complete your work.

You waste such a lot of time doing the things which do not count and then find yourself pressed for time to do the essentials.

Regardless of whether you have time or not, why do you not plan your tasks and get them done expeditiously, and then really rest and recreate in your spare time.

Focus your efforts whether it be for work, rest or play.

Samuel Butler saith—and if you don't read Sam Butler's keen observations on life as is you're as bad off as the goof that looked like he just ankled off the w.k. Ark—that "a man may make, as it were, cash entries of himself in a day-book, but the entries in the ledger and the balancing out accounts should be done by others." Keen stuff, but totally unnecessary here in Shanghai where exchange is the principal vocation and avocation.

THE BATTLE TO THE SOUTH OF THE CITY

by Li T'ai-po

(From Pir-Flower Tablets)

How dim the battle field, as yellow dusk!
The fighting men are like a swarm of ants.
The air is thick, the sun a red wheel.
Blood dyes the wild chrysanthemums purple.
Vultures hold the flesh of men in their mouths,
They are heavy with food—they cannot rise to fly.
There were men yesterday on the city wall;
There are ghosts today below the city wall.
Colors of flags like a net of stars,
Rolling of horse-carried drums—not yet is the killing ended.
From the house of the Unworthy One—a husband, sons,
All within earshot of the rolling horse drums.

Dear Larry:

I desire to enter Mr. Bok's competition with a rush. My essay is short and sweet and rendered with all due apologies to Woodrow Wilson. I suggest as the only real solution to world unrest the slogan "Too proud to fight." Please send me the $100,000, minus exchange, by return mail.

SHRINKING VIOLET.

Dear Larry: The history of the world shows that women have always been at the bottom of every war ever fought. Therefore, if we kill off all the females there ain't going to be no more wars. Please collect from Mr. Bok and keep ten percent commission.

The Romance Of Reuters

Under the heading "The Romance of Reuters in the Making of Newspapers," the following article appears in The Graphic:

The news that Reuters are moving part of their establishment to a commodious building on the Thames Embankment, which was recently vacated by the Port of London Authority, is a proof of the growth of a great business, but it involves no breach with the past. The premises which Reuters have occupied for over half a century will still be retained for that part of their work which is specially connected with the City. The house, covering three freeholds in Old Jewry, with its sober seventeenth century facade, is one of the most interesting buildings in London. In the Middle Ages the street was part of the Ghetto; then it advanced in prestige, and at one time contained a Royal palace. Stow, writing in 1598, described it as "a very good open street, graced by buildings inhabited by merchants and people of repute." The Great Fire of 1666 made a clean sweep of the neighborhood.

On the palace site was erected a building which over one hundred years ago was advertised in the Times as "24, Old Jewry, a very comfortable and desirable dwelling-house with garden." The garden has long since gone, and if the ghosts of the former "people of repute" ever return they will find the low-pitched ceilings they knew; but they will find, too, their bedrooms occupied by editors busy with typewriters and tape machines, and the roof festooned with wires, along which travels the latest news from the four quarters of the globe. It is a pleasant paradox that an organisation which is the last word in modern business enterprise should be housed in a place which suggests the limited horizons and the quiet, decorous life of older days. For that plain old edifice, the door of which has not been shut night or day for fifty years, is in touch every moment with the remotest corners of the earth. Messages pour into it and go from it which begin or end in tropical jungles, in Himalayan snows, and the farthest islands of the sea. Cables despatched by men with the hum of London in their ears are presently passing through places where monkeys may break down the wires and elephants lean too heavily on the telegraph poles. In the heart of Africa, in the Holy Land, in sacred Mecca, throughout the East from Bombay to Tibet, from Java to Tokio, Reuters' news is paramount, and often the only news.

ANCIENT HISTORY

The romance of Reuters is of a piece with their historic habitation. More than 80 years ago, before the days of railways and telegraphs, a young bank clerk on the Continent of Europe conceived the idea of beating the mail coach and the mounted courier as a means of conveying news. He started a service of carrier-pigeons between Brussels and Aix-la-Chapelle, which were used to distribute the latest market prices. He prospered and when the telegraph came he was one of the first to see its possibilities. Presently we find this Julius Reuter beginning in a small way in England, where, in 1851, he opened offices at No. 1 Royal Exchange Buildings. His staff consisted of a single office boy, Mr. F. J. Griffiths, who in later years became Secretary of the Company. At first Julius Reuter, who had become an English citizen, confined himself to Stock Exchange information, but he soon extended his business to commercial and then to general news. After many efforts he induced Mr. John Walter of The Times to take a daily news service, and the reputation of Reuters was established by the agency's work in the American Civil War and the campaign of Solferino. The quarters were now at No. 5, Lothbury, where the business became Reuters' Telegram Company, Limited, whose earliest work was to lay the cable between Lowestoft and Norderney, the first section of the overland route to India. In the spring of 1871 the head office was moved to Old Jewry. The agency, which in 1851 employed a single office boy, has now fourteen departments, heavily manned, at headquarters, which direct branches all over the world; and it has become necessary to find scope for further development in the fine building on the Embankment, formerly occupied by the Port of London Authority.

THE FOUNDER

Julius Reuter, the founder, had that genius which can divine the significance of small beginnings. He was the first man to appreciate what exactly the rapid transmission of news meant to the world. He had not only a masterly command of detail, but he had great imaginative conceptions. For example, he obtained a concession from the Persian Government in 1872 to construct railways throughout that country with the object of knitting together Persian and British interests. The scheme failed, though the capital was forthcoming, since he was ill-supported by the British Government, who did not share his breadth of outlook. Mr. Henry M. Collins, who played a large part in these negotiations, is still alive. The barony conferred on Julius Reuter by the Duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha in 1871, in recognition of his public services, was recognised twenty years later by Lord Salisbury's Government. Otherwise the life's work of the father of telegraphic news, who gathered the wires of the world into his hand, and who was described by The Times as "the most intelligent man of his day," was ignored by the country of his adoption. In 1876 the Baron's eldest son, Herbert, became managing director of the agency, and, though by disposition a scholar rather than a man of affairs, conducted it successfully until his death in 1915.

DURING THE WAR

The outbreak of war in 1914 put Reuters in a position of the highest national importance. It was fortunate that the agency found in Sir Roderick Jones, the present chairman and managing director, a successor to Baron Herbert, admirably fitted to deal with the crisis. The greatest of the world's news agencies had always maintained a patriotic independence. In a war of life and death, when a large part of the world depended upon Reuters for the news of the struggle, and an honest statement of the questions at issue, special measures were considered necessary to entrench that independence. The first business was to reorganise the Company. The shares were scattered among 1,200 holders, and easily purchasable—a source of danger during a time of national peril.

Accordingly the directors resolved to place the trusteeship of the agency in the hands of a few representative British citizens, among whom were the Hon. Mark Napier (at that time chairman), the late Lord Glenconner, Viscount Peel, the late Sir Starr Jameson and Sir Roderick Jones. The old stockholders were bought out at a cost of over half a million sterling, and Reuters, Limited, the shares in only a few hands, came into being.

Having completed his re-organisation, Sir Roderick Jones served first in the Department, then, as Director of Propaganda, in the Ministry of Information throughout 1917 and 1918, and during that time he placed the managing-directorship of Reuters in commission. But after the Armistice he not only completed his task of setting the old business on the firmest foundation, but he quickened its activities in a dozen new directions. Meanwhile Mr. S. C. Clements had succeeded Mr. W. F. Bradshaw as manager and secretary, and the late Mr. F. W. Dickinson, "the sagacious keeper of Reuters' conscience," retained the chief editorship until his death. In recent months various changes have been made, including the appointment of Mr. John Buchan as deputy-chairman, and the addition of Sir Edward Grigg and Mr. S. C. Clements to the Board.

BIG ORGANISATION

Reuters today are the greatest clearing house in the world for the world's news. They are not merely engaged in the reception of foreign news and its distribution to English newspapers—to the London papers direct and to the provincial journals through the Press Association—but they also send news all over the world, not only from Britain but from every foreign country. The globe is divided into areas, each of which has its Reuter general manager. Each general manager is controlled from London, and each, in turn, controls the managers and correspondents within his territory, save in the case of one or two areas which are under the head office. The agency has its representatives in every important city of the world, with intricate connections in the smallest places. The many Reuter services issued from the head office spread out like a fan as they get farther from England, and reach the farthest corners of the earth. The senior of the great national agencies, Reuters are in close alliance by treaty or by contract with the chief agency in every country in the world.

journalism. There are few dull moments in the work of a great agency, and many whimsical and dramatic incidents. Reuters' editors have much to contend with in elucidating Press messages sent in plain language but in an abbreviated and frequently mutilated form; but it is rare that a mistake is made. The classic instance of a "howler" happened many years ago when, in a message from Reuters' Sydney correspondent relating to the opening of a new railway in Queensland, there appeared the words "Governor twins first son." It should have been "Governor turns first sod;" but a bachelor Governor, over sixty years of age, appeared as having become the father of twins, the elder being a son!

JOURNALISTIC AIMS

The aim of a good correspondent is to be first in the field with news, and Reuters have innumerable striking successes to their credit. The first announcement of war between France and Austria in 1859 was issued by Reuters. The release of the Southern Commissioners, Mason and Slidell, was first known to them, and they had the privilege of informing Lord Palmerston. They were a week ahead with the news of the murder of Lincoln (this was before the days of the Atlantic cable), their New York correspondent overhauling the mail steamer and flinging on board a tin case containing an account of the tragedy. In those pre-cable days American news was sent by steamer to Roches Point, County Cork, and telegraphed thence on Reuters' own line to London. To get ahead of their competitors Reuters used to have their despatches enclosed in a hermetically closed box, with a flag affixed, which was dropped by the purser off the Irish coast, picked up by a steamer specially chartered for the purpose, carried to Crookhaven, and there telegraphed. It was Reuters who, in the Zulu War, first announced the news of Isandlwana and the Prince Imperial's death. They had the first report of the battle of Tel-el-Kebir, the first despatches from the expedition for the relief of Gordon, and in 1907 gave out the complete text of the secret treaty between Great Britain and Russia concerning spheres of influence in Persia.

STRANGE ADVENTURES

Their correspondents have often had strange adventures. When the Committee of Union and Progress achieved the coup d'etat at Constantinople, Reuters' correspondent, Mr. Fergus Ferguson, met Talaat Pasha, who informed him that he had got the Cabinet shut up inside and was waiting for the Sultan to approve their nominees. "What about wiring?" asked the correspondent. "That is all right," said Talaat. "The wires are cut just at present, but I will see that Reuters' message gets through." And it did. Mr. Guy Beringer, their correspondent in Russia during the revolution, was imprisoned by the Bolsheviks, and was for a long time in hourly expectation of death. In the Great War it was a Reuter despatch that first told the Allied world that the United States had broken off diplomatic relations with Germany.

But of all Reuters' "scoops" the most remarkable was their announcement of the relief of Mafeking two days ahead of the Government or anybody else. Reuters' telegram reached London at 9:15 on Friday, May 18, 1900, from one of their correspondents on the Boer side—a Scotsman! It was instantly forwarded to the newspapers and telephoned to the Lord Mayor, who announced the news from the steps of the Mansion House. Copies were sent to Queen Victoria (who in her diaries makes several references to the interest which she took in Reuters' telegrams, and on this occasion asked to see the original), to the Prince of Wales, and to the various Ministers. Within a short time late editions were selling by the thousand, and in the House of Commons, at 11 p.m., Mr. Chamberlain stated that "although no official confirmation had been received, he had no reason to doubt the accuracy of Reuters' information." The whole world, including Lord Roberts himself, who had despatched the relief column and who read out the Reuter telegram to the troops on Church Parade at Bloemfontein, was wholly dependent upon Reuters.

REUTER STANDARDS

Every great organisation must have its standards, and the chief asset of a news agency must be a reputation based upon a scrupulous fidelity to such standards. Reuters' greatest possession is their name and the goodwill which adheres to it. The agency is a carefully constructed and brilliantly manipulated machine, and it is a machine with a soul. It aims at speed; it seeks to ensure that the news of any important event throughout the world shall be on the wires immediately after its happening. But far above speed it puts accuracy. It would rather be silent than win a short-lived reputation with false or faulty news. Its aim is that most difficult thing, objective truth, which is far more than a mere formal accuracy. In its messages it eschews all bias and "tendencious" purpose. It is under no control of Government, or financial group, or political party.

It takes two to tell the truth, as Stevenson says, one to speak it and one to hear it, and Reuters have always aimed, not only at a verbal correctness in statement, but at a true impression upon the mind of the receiver. Moreover, the agency has a proper sense of responsibility. There have been cases where Reuters have secured information of the first importance, but which they have withheld on grounds of public policy. That is why the agency possesses the confidence of Governments and the confidence of the ordinary man. No news organisation ever received a higher compliment than that for more than two days, without official confirmation, and without any corroboration from any other source, the whole of the British Empire should have celebrated the Relief of Mafeking entirely upon Reuters word. Not less striking were the tributes repeatedly paid it during the Great War. A certain Reuter message was held up by the authorities, though the same message was published elsewhere. There were good reasons for withholding the news. Reuters naturally asked why there should be this discrimination against them. The answer was "Because if this news is published under Reuters' name people will believe it."

The Mystery Of Man

BY RUDYARD KIPLING

(In The World's Work)

In his Hunterian oration, Sir John Bland-Sutton touched on that noble verse in Ecclesiasticus: "Honor the Physician with the honor which is due to him for the uses which ye may have of him."

There is an alternative reading which runs, "Honor a Physician before thou has't need of him."

"It is also seemly to honor him after that event. And I have not another justification, but an excuse, for speaking in such an assembly as this. I am, by calling a dealer in words, and words are, of course, the most powerful drug used by mankind.

Not only do words infect, ergotise, narcotise and paralyse, but they enter into and color the minutest cells of the brain, very much as madder mixed with a stag's food at the zoo colors the growth of the animal's antlers. Moreover, in the case of the human animal, that acquired tint, or taint, is transmissible.

AN OLD LEGEND

There is a legend which has been transmitted to us from the remotest ages. It has entered into many brains and colored not a few creeds.

It is this: Once upon a time, or rather at the very birth of time, when the Gods were so new that they had no names, and Man was still damp from the clay of the pit whence he had been digged, Man claimed that he, too, was in some sort a deity.

The Gods were as just in those days as they are now. They weighed his evidence and decided that Man's claim was good—that he was, in effect, a divinity, and, as such, entitled to be freed from the trammels of mere brute instinct, to enjoy the consequence of his own acts.

But the Gods sell everything at a price. Having conceded Man's claim, the legend goes that they came by stealth and stole away this godhead, with intent to hide it where Man should never find it again. But this was none so easy.

If they hid it anywhere on Earth, the Gods foresaw that Man, the inveterate hunter—the father, you might say, of all hunters would leave no stone unturned or wave unplumbed till he had recovered it.

If they concealed it among themselves, they feared that Man might in the end batter his way up even to the skies. And, while they were all thus at a stand, the wisest of the Gods, who afterwards became the God Brahm, said, "I know. Give it to me!"

And he closed his hand upon the tiny unstable light of Man's stolen godhead, and when that great hand opened again, the light was gone.

"All is well," said Brahm. "I have hidden it where Man will never dream of looking for it. I have hidden it inside Man himself." "Yes, but whereabouts inside Man have you hidden it?" all the other Gods asked. "Ah," said Brahm, "that is my secret, and always will be unless and until Man discovers it for himself."

MAN, HUNTER OF TRUTH

Thus, then, gentlemen, does the case stand with Man up to the present. Consider, for a moment, the pathos of the poor brute's position.

You all know the common formula for him. "Born of Woman, on Woman designed to beget his life—the natural quarry of the Seven Deadly Sins, but the Altar of an inextinguishable Hope."

Or, more scientifically—I regret I am not a scientific person—he might be defined as "An imperfectly denatured animal intermittently subject to the unpredictable reactions of an unlocated spiritual area."

And it is just this search for this unlocated spiritual area, whether it be a growth or a survival, which has preoccupied Man from that day to this. The priest and the lawgiver have probed and fished for it all through the ages, but, more than any other, through all the ages, the leech, the medicine man, the healer, has been hottest on his rack.

SEARCHED EVERYWHERE

He has searched wherever he dared—openly or furtively—in safety or at the risk of his life. In the early days the Astrologer-Physician, as he called himself, dreamed that the secret of Man's eternal unrest was laid up in the sun, moon, and stars; and consequently, since all created things were one in essence, that an universal medicament for Man's eternal woes would be discovered upon earth.

So he searched the earth and the heavens for those twin secrets, and sacrificed himself in the search as a matter of course. Later, when the embargoes on the healing art were lifted, when, at last, he was permitted to look openly into the bodies of mankind, the nature of his dreams changed for a while.

He had found more wonders beneath his knife than earth or the planets had heretofore shown him. And that was barely ten generations ago. Once again, the surgeon, as he had become, renewed his search, and once again sacrificed himself in the search as his passion drove him. There is no anaesthesia so complete as man's absorption in his own job.

In the teeth of the outrageous, the absurd disabilities imposed on him, Man, the imperfectly denatured animal, who cannot trust the evidence of his own senses in the simplest matter of fact; whose evidence on the simplest matter is colored by his own iniquities; Man, always the hunter, went up against the darkness of his being, to find out what order of created being he might be.

He called it scientific research. It was the old quest under a new name.

But, this time, the seekers who headed it, unlike the priest and the lawyer, admitted that they knew very little. Experience had taught them to be humble. For that reason their knowledge was increased. They moved forward into areas of the body, which, till then, had denied themselves to Man's hand. They were turned back, without explanation, from other areas which, as yet, would tolerate no spying. They were bewildered by mysteries which, under some new marriage of observation upon accident, or some predestined slip of the knife, resolved into—mysteries profounder still!

Is it any wonder that the old dreams came back? The dream of the essential unity of all created things—the dream that some day that which men called life might be led into matter which men call dead—the boldest dream of all, that eventually Man might surprise the ultimate secret of being where Brahm had hidden it. And, meanwhile, their days were filled as yours are filled, with the piteous procession of men and women begging them, as men and women beg of you daily, for leave to be allowed to live a little longer, upon whatever terms.

A DREAD ART

Is it any wonder, gentlemen of the College of Surgeons, that your calling should exact the utmost that man can give—full knowledge, exquisite judgment and skill in the highest, to be put forth, not at any self-chosen moment but daily at the need of others? More than this. Your dread art demands the instant, impersonal vision which in one breath, one beat of the pulse, can automatically dismiss every preconceived idea and impression, and as automatically recognise, accept and overcome whatever of new and unsuspected menace may have slid into the light beneath your steadfast hand.

But such virtue is not reached or maintained except by a life's labor, a life's single-minded devotion. Its reward is not only the knowledge of mastery and the gratitude of the layman, which may or may not bring content. Its true reward is the dearly-prized, because unpurchasable, acknowledgment of one's fellow craftsmen.

I have the honor tonight of speaking before you, who are the masters in your craft, and I do not give you the name of the least in your long line of seekers who follow the quest Brahm set them, when I ask you to drink the health of "Sir John Bland-Sutton, a master among masters."

Bobbie And His Pa

BY WILLIAM F. KIRK

I Asked Pa last nite what is Publick Wheel and Pa sed why do you ask that questun, Bobbie.

Our teecher sed we shud grow up and work for the Publick Weel, I sed. I was wondering if it was anything like the weels on attermobeels, I sed to Pa.

No, Bobbie, sed Pa, the Publick Weel meens the publick well-fare, sed Pa. The publick good. Such citizens as myself, for instans, sed Pa, are for the public good.

Honest? sed Ma.

Yes indeed, sed Pa. It talks men with Vishun to be for the Publick Weel, sed Pa. Men that can look ahead, sed Pa.

If I grow up and do sumthing for the Publick Weel, I sed what will the Publick Weel do for me?

Pa laffed. Bobbie, sed Pa, you are a grate deel like the averidge citizen, sed Pa. You doant think of doing anything unless there is a quick comeback, sed Pa. You will nevver be a grate man until you forget that comeback stuff, Bobbie, sed Pa. All men with grate minds, such gents like what I am, said Pa, thinks first of how much good they can do, Pa sed, and lastly about what they are going to git out of it.

When I grow up I will do all the good I can for myself and my fambly, I sed. Then if I have any time left and any munny to spend, I sed, I will spend that time and munny for the Publick Weel, I sed.

You must not figger quite that way, Bobbie, sed Pa. Help yourself all you can every day, but doant wait till you are a old miyunair beefoar trying to help pure nabor or yure hoan town, sed Pa. Do it now, sed Pa. Eeven a littel boy like you, Bobbie, Pa sed, can help the publick Weel by not throwing paipers around the street and by not breaking limms off of trees along the street, and by keaping other littel boys from killing song birds, etc., sed Pa. We can all help, even the most Humbil and Lowly of us, ceven you, deer wife, sed Pa to Ma.

Oh, is that so? sed Ma. Eeven the humbil and lowly me, is that it, sed Ma. I doant care to help, thank you, sed Ma. If the publick reegards me as a littel Mikerobe, sed Ma, I will pull in my horns and crawl into my shell, sed Ma.

Ha Ha, sed Pa, I kind of got you that time, dident I? sed Pa. No, wife, sed Pa, you are not a Mikerobe, all you ladys can do much for the Publick Weel, Pa sed, espeshuly if the younger ladies will be cairful to marry such husbands as that sterling American to wich you are married to, sed Pa.

I doant see how Pa can stop thinking about hisself long enuff to think about the Publick Weel.

SUPER-DURABLE FLAT PAINT
FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician knowing of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

Wu Ting-fang Saved Americans In Boxer Crisis, Officer Reveals

Washington, by mail.—Discussion here of the plight of the foreigners held captive in Shantung Province have brought to light for the first time an interesting chapter of the Boxer incident in 1900, when the foreign colony in Peking was besieged and threatened with death.

As related by a distinguished American army officer, now retired but at that time occupying a high position in the War Department, the story discloses that it was the United States which started the march on Peking for relief of the besieged nationals.

The story turns upon the fact that the Chinese Minister in Washington in 1900 was Wu Ting-fang, who recently died in harness as Foreign Minister for President Sun Yat-sen's Government. He was largely sympathetic with the American viewpoint. One of his closest friends was the famous Chinese Tuchun, Yuan Shih-kai, at that time Governor of the great province Chihli, which includes Peking, and later Emperor.

While the legationers were besieged they were cut off almost completely from communication with the outside world. The Chinese Government, dominated by the old Empress Dowager, herself bitterly anti-foreign, was known to be sympathetic with the Boxer movement, though professedly taking no part in it. In consequence, that Government gave no assistance to the powers.

At this juncture the friendship between Wu Ting-fang and Yuan Shih-kai became a valuable asset. At great personal risk—a discovery of his activity would have cost him his life when he returned to China—Minister Wu induced Yuan Shih-kai by secret means to get into communication with the legationers. Soon afterward, through this agency, first news reached Washington that the prisoners had not been killed, as first reported, although in great need of help.

A large international army had gathered at Tientsin. Some of the commanders were disposed to move slowly, under the belief that a release could be effected without actual combat. At this juncture came a message from Yuan Shih-kai to Wu in Washington saying a date very near had been set by the Boxer chiefs for a tremendous onslaught upon the legation compound and the massacre of all the legationers.

Wu, in haste, visited the State Department and laid the message before Secretary Hay, who carried it immediately to the White House. President McKinley summoned his Cabinet in special session and Adjt. Gen. Corbin was called in for advice. Then a cablegram was dispatched to Gen. Chaffee, in command of the American forces at Tientsin, informing him of the situation. He was given a free hand, though the issue was war.

On that afternoon the allied generals were in conference, again debating the course to be pursued. When the cablegram was handed to Gen. Chaffee, he rose and said:

"Gentlemen, at daybreak tomorrow the American forces will move on Peking. I should be very glad to have company—the more the better. But they go at any rate, even if alone."

Immediately the British commander was on his feet.

"I'm with you," he declared. "The British troops will march with the Americans tomorrow morning."

One by one, though not all enthusiastically, the other commanders agreed, and at daybreak began the famous march, headed by a little detachment of American marines. It resulted in the release of the legationers but a few hours before the time set for their extermination.

Chihli Leader Flirting With Sun; 'Favor Policies'

Peking, July 5.—The representatives of eight political parties met at Paotingfu, with the result that Tsao Kun's Garden was a center of intriguing and banqueting. The following resolutions were passed by the Paotingfu conferees following hot discussions and bitter quarrels:—

1.—It behoves the Chihli militarists to maintain peace and order in the Metropolis in particular and China in general. Peace and order comes from the adoption of legal measures.

2.—The National Assembly should meet in Peking in accordance with constitutional procedure. The Chihli militarists should espouse the cause of constitutionalism in China.

3.—The leaders in China should expedite the completion of a permanent Constitution.

4.—The Chihli militarists should bow down before the National Assembly. The majority in the Parliament is to rule. The general election shall be suspended pending the drawing up of a permanent Constitution.

5.—In order to make the mutilated government function, we must see to the filling up of vacant ministerial posts. Form is an essential thing in politics.

6.—Sun Hung-yi shall be authorised to communicate with Dr. Sun Yat-sen. The Chihli militarists desire to see Doctor Sun's theories put into practice, as follows: First, the Chihli-ites are eager to convert soldiers into productive laborers. Secondly, the leaders in China will be called to an internal peace conference.

The Chihli war barons are in bitter tangle over the inspectorate of Chihli, Shantung, and Honan which post will be left vacant upon Marshal Tsao Kun's promotion. General Feng Yu-hsiang, Wang Huai-ching and Wang Chen-ping all are candidates for this highly remunerative job.

General Wang Huai-ching, the Tartar General desires to give his present territorial base at Jehol and Suiyuan to General Feng in exchange for the Inspectorate of Chihli, Shantung and Honan. This General Feng strenuously opposes, saying that he has not the least desire for General Wang's position at Jehol.

Many Peking solons are en route to Southern provinces. The Chekiang members have withdrawn from the Peking Parliament while the Chen Shu Huai members have decided to depart from Peking for Shanghai. However, there remain quite a number of "fenceriders" at the capital, their policy being one of "wait and see."

It may not be out of place here to say that quite a number of parliamentarians are making a big fortune out of their business. They are profiteers in that they collect gifts and encouragement funds from the Tientsiners as well as from the Peking crowd. Both the Li Yuan-hung men and Tsao Kun's followers desire to exploit the services of these fence-riders.

General Hsiao Yao-nan, the Hupeh Tuchun, is figuring prominently in Chinese politics, for Marshal Tsao Kun has sent Huang Ching-k'ai to Wuchang to confer with Hsiao regarding the general election to be held in the month of August.

Tuchun Chi of Kiangsu has also sent a delegate to Wuchang to make arrangements with Tuchun Hsiao whose attitude toward the forthcoming presidential election is an important factor in the general election.

Hsiao remarked: "Let the Parliament draw up the Constitution first, and they will automatically elect Tsao to the presidency. The election should be legally conducted or the people will ignore it. I would advise Tsao Kun against being led astray by the political philosophy of a certain clique whose policy, if carried out, will lead the Chihli potentate to ruin. Tsao will be the next Li Yuan-hung if he listens to the whisperings of 'little men.'"

Finance Minister Chang Ying-hua's resignation is a lip affair only. Although he is in Tientsin, he is making arrangements in Peking so that he may not be eliminated from the Ministry of Finance. His scheme has been discovered by Wang Ko-ming's supporters who we urging Wang to head the Finance Ministry. Kao Lin-wei is in constant touch with Wang, and it is believed that Wang will consent to take over the duties of the Finance Minister.

Another interesting thing is that the Ministry of Finance requests the Acting Premier to restore Tsao Ju-lin and Lu Chung-yu their personal and political liberty. The loans contracted by the Anfu trio with the Japanese have been cleared up. The Peking politicians, it is stated, desire the financial assistance of these financiers.

Empire Wireless Chain

London, June 2.—The delay of over twelve years in carrying the Empire wireless chain project into effect is the subject of a pungent comment by the Daily Telegraph which refers to the fact that some of the foreign nations are able to communicate by wireless with many parts of the British Empire, while Britain is still thus unequipped. The paper describes this as a national, even an Imperial humiliation. Reference is made to the steps taken by South Africa, Canada, and Australia to erect high power stations on the assumption that corresponding action will be speedily taken here, and the paper declares that the Postmaster-General cannot fail to be impressed by the opposition in the Dominions to this Department handing the problem.

The Telegraph recognises that the Dominions are wedded to the principle of private enterprise, but it points in this connection to certain broad principeles which cannot be ignored, notable in connection with the use of the system by Government for purposes of defence as also by the Colonial and India Offices. Provision must be made for Government control in war time, but the paper holds that these conditions are not incompatible with the employment of private enterprise. It suggests that the British and Dominion Government should establish a wireless board resembling the pacific Cables Board, and recommends that a free start be made and past controversies and jealousies ignored.

BIG AMERICAN MAIL CAME ON LINER YESTERDAY

Mail Goes To States On President Wilson Tomorrow

Following a big American mail that arrived on the President Madison yesterday, the next consignment will arrive on the Empress of Canada, Friday, July 13. The Madison is docked at the China Merchants Central Wharf at 6 o'clock yesterday morning and will sail for Hongkong and Manila at 5 o'clock tomorrow evening.

The M. M. liner Angkor, with the European mail of June 1, left Hongkong on Thursday, and is due to arrive in Shanghai this morning. The vessel is to dock at the S. M. R. Whangpoo Wharf about 9 o'clock, and will sail for Kobe and Yokohama next Monday.

Baptist Women Give $2,000,000 To Missions

Kansas City, (By mail.)—As a result of missionary stimulus afforded by constant study of missionary topics throughout the past year, the organized Baptist women of the South contributed approximately $2,000,000 in cash to missions and benevolent works other than the work of their local churches, according to the annual report of Miss Kathleen Mallory, corresponding secretary of the Women's Baptist Missionary Union, presented at the thirty-fifth annual session of that body here today.

In addition to these gifts the women in their organized capacity sent $8,000 in special equipment to the Baptist hospitals on the mission fields of China and Africa, and $50,000 in cash and clothing to suffering Baptist families in Europe, the report set forth.

The number of local Women Missionary Union organizations affiliated with the convention grew during last year to approximately 22,000, and a total of 15,033 study classes of one week each were held in the interest of home and foreign missions and other benevolent programs.

U. S. Court

At the U. S. Court for China yesterday, before Judge C. S. Lobingier, Frank Smith, unemployed seaman, was charged with vagrancy. Mr. Husar, District Attorney, prosecuted and Mr. James F. Jones defended. Mr. Husar maintained that the defendant was a samshu addict, and although the Consul-General had arranged his transportation to the States the other day with the Admiral Line, defendant had failed to leave Shanghai. He was drinking poison.

The Judge ordered that Smith should get a bond signed within 24 hours.

J. F. Fitzpatrick, unemployed seaman, was charged with being in possession of an automatic .32 revolver (Savage) and seven rounds of ammunition in Broadway on June 24.

Defendant stated that he had been given the gun on board ship as he intended to remain in China and go into the interior. He pleaded ignorance of the law, and said that he now desired to return to Los Angeles.

The case was taken under advisement.
